Federal Aid Granted Kingston-New Paltz Road

Secretary of Agriculture Recognizes That This is an Alternative Highway to Route 9-W and Federal Aid is Given to Construction From Kingston to Ireland Corners.

Washington, July 18—(Special)—Extension of New York's Federal aid highway system to include State Route 208 from Ireland Corners to Kingston, through New Paltz, has been approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, it was announced today at the bureau of public roads.

Federal funds will now be available for this stretch of road, in exact ratio to the state funds which are expended, officials said. With improvement completed, it is expected that this road will divert considerable traffic which now flows through Poughkeepsie.

Addition of this mileage to the state's Federal aid system was permissible because New York is one of seven states which have completed their Federal aid network as originally laid out, and are now allowed to make extensions, with the approval of the department, it was said.

While immediate commencement of work on the road is not mandatory because of its inclusion in the Federal aid system, approval would not have been granted if the state highway department had not showed that there is money in the state treasury for at least a part of the work, and that plans have been prepared for starting improvement of the road at a definite date, officials of the bureau said.

Improvement of this stretch of road, it was said, will provide an alternate to U. S. Route 9-W, above Newburgh, and will provide a connection with U. S. Route 6, opening up the recreational area west of Poughkeepsie.

Bernard Weber Is Again In Trouble

Howland Avenue Youth Arrested Sunday Morning On Charge of Rape—Is Now Out On Bail On Arson Charge In Greene County—Other Cases.

Bernard Weber, 18, of 54 Howland avenue, through his attorney, Walter J. Miller, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of rape in the second degree when arraigned before Judge Culloton in police court this morning, and was released on bail in the sum of $1,000 furnished by his mother for a hearing later in police court.

The youth was arrested Sunday morning by the police following a complaint made to the police by a woman that her 13-year-old daughter had been attacked by the youth Saturday night at Forsyth Park. According to the girl's statement to the police she had gone to the park with Weber in an automobile and had remained in the car at the park until 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning. She had left her home about 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Weber is now out on bail on an arson charge in Greene county. Weber with Walter Howland of Asbury, near Saugerties, was arrested last May by State Troopers on a charge of arson. The youth was accused of setting fire to the house of Howland located on the King's Highway in Greene county. It is claimed the house was set on fire so that Howland could collect the fire insurance.

The arson case is still pending in the Greene county court.

Held On Burglary Charge

Bernard Alcon of 11 East Strand is under arrest on a charge of burglary in the third degree. It is alleged by the police that Sunday night Alcon broke into the residence of George Weissman at 115 Wurts street.

In police court this morning Alcon was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan. A plea of not guilty was entered to the charge and the hearing was adjourned to July 29. Bail was fixed at $500.

Traffic Cases In Court

Raymond J. Reiley of Holyoke, Mass., was arrested Sunday on a charge of operating an automobile without an operator's license. This morning he pled guilty to the charge and was fined $2.

John Markie of New Paltz was fined $2 for parking his car on Wall street on Saturday afternoon.

FORMER PREMIER AVERTS SMALL PANIC ON SHIP

S. S. Empress of Britain, July 18 (AP)—(By Radio).—Stanley Baldwin, former premier of Great Britain and president of the British delegation en route to the Imperial Conference at Ottawa, probably averted a small panic aboard ship last night when a small blaze broke out in the concert room.

The passengers were gathered for the usual concert when smoke was seen curling from the stage. An electric wire had fused.

Mr. Baldwin, who was presiding at the concert, announced quietly: "That ends the program."

The crowded room was emptied without a sign of disorder. The fire was quickly extinguished.

15 Killed, Many Hurt In German Political Riots; Cabinet Acts

German Government Bans All Outdoor Demonstrations Following Riots Over Week-end—Altona Center of Activity.

Berlin, July 18 (AP).—The German government issued a decree today banning all outdoor demonstrations following a week-end of political rioting in which fifteen persons were killed and scores injured.

The cabinet was faced with a number of other possibilities, such as the declaring of a state emergency as demanded by various political groups, forbidding the wearing of uniforms as the Centrists and trade unions want, or outlawing the Communists as the Nazis demanded, but it considered a general ban on all outdoor processions and demonstrations the most effective method of avoiding further bloody week-ends.

May Wear Uniforms

Permission to wear uniforms continued, however. The cabinet reinstated them under pressure from Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, and could hardly afford politically to rescind its own orders.

In some quarters it was maintained that as long as the uniforms are permitted the possibility of further clashes will remain, but since large crowds will no longer be permitted to march or meet outdoors the government considered that an effective brake was put on the situation by today's decree.

Thousands took part in the bloody battles of the past week-end.

The most severe clash was at Altona, a city of 170,000 persons near Hamburg. Twelve were slain and fifty injured when 6,000 National Socialists and Communists fought savagely. Police succeeded in breaking up the battle at midnight.

At Griefswald, a small town in Pomerania near the Baltic Sea, two persons were killed and 25 seriously wounded, in another battle between Nazis and Communists.

One Nazi was killed in pistol fire exchange in Alte Jakobstrasse, in the heart of Berlin.

Other Clashes.

Late reports reaching Berlin today said there were clashes also between opposing political groups at Leipsic, in eastern Frisia, in Hanover, at Luckenwalde, Chemnitz, Barmen, Gladbach, Remscheid, Bochum, Detmold, Wismar, Freising and Itzehoe.

The new decree is a stern document. In a semi-official statement issued shortly after it was published the government indicated that. "It reserves all further measures to itself and will not hesitate in case of need to proceed severely against groups working with explosives and firearms, even to the extent of standing up against a wall and shooting those caught with firearms or explosives."

RESIDENTS AND AGENTS UNFRIENDLY AFTER RAIDS.

Alexandria Bay, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—Relations between the residents of this summer resort and federal prohibition agents were not improved today by the statement of an Alexandria Bay resident that he overheard a dry agent threaten "to come back and wreck the town."

As a special representative of Amos W. Woodcock, commissioner in charge of prohibition enforcement, continued his investigation into the feud between the natives and the enforcement officers which has caused five injuries, G. H. Savage, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said he would send a report of the "threat" direct to Woodcock.

Robert Gibson, a stock broker, claimed he overheard the dry agents' comment a few hours after a raid and mob scene in which two agents were beaten by an angry crowd.

"Gibson was in Watertown afterward," Savage said. "He heard a conversation in which a dry agent said, 'We'll come back and wreck the town.'

"He made an affidavit about it, and we are going to send it to Commissioner Woodcock."

Savage said other statements by prominent citizens would be sent to Washington, among them that of a former mayor, Fuller Cornwall.

Cornwall, Savage said, related that an agent raised a gun in his direction when he protested the raiders' acts. The agents have been charged with needless destruction of property.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, July 18 (AP).—Treasury receipts for July 15 were $4,225,538.48; expenditures, $20,140,344.92; balance, $247,757,917.22. Customs duties for 15 days of July were $8,597,691.38.

First Session of 72nd Congress Closes With Heavy Legislation

Washington, July 18 (AP).—The precedent-destroying first session of the seventy-second congress is over—and President Hoover tomorrow will sign the $2,122,000,000 relief bill, writing "finis" if not "well done" to one of the legislators' biggest jobs.

Thus will become law another of the pieces of legislation that defied tradition and stretched this last meeting of congress into its eighth hectic month before adjournment at 11:25 Saturday night.

The closing hours of Saturday's session were anything but calm. They saw:

The senate put on the calendar the December session a resolution sponsored by Senator Gloss (D., Va.) to replace the 17th amendment with another barring the saloon and giving liquor control to the states. The time for taking it up, however, remained problematical.

Scores of veterans milling about the capitol and heading for the White House in a demand for the bonus.

A final house vote making adjournment possible by passing the administration's home loan bank bill carrying a currency expansion rider upon which the senate insisted.

When the weary lawmakers went home they left behind them records that showed these things approved since December.

The $270,000,000 Hoover debt moratorium.

The two acts setting up a $3,800,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Glass-Steagall bill to liberalize banking laws and create additional credit.

The $1,118,500,000 tax law.

An "economy" bill to save around $150,000,000.

The Norris bill to minimize the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

The addition of $125,000,000 to farm loan bank capital.

Submission to states of a constitutional amendment to abolish "lame duck" sessions.

They left on the President's veto record:

The Democratic tariff bill.

The first Garner-Wagner relief bill.

They saw approved by one house but not the other:

Phillippine independence.

The Goldsborough bill directing the treasury and federal reserve board to stabilize the dollar.

A proposal to cash the bonus.

A bill for the leasing or government operation of Muscle Shoals.

A proposed expenditure of about a billion dollars for a treaty navy.

They left awaiting action:

The world court treaty.

A bill by Senator Glass to reform banking laws.

Demands for farm relief legislation.

Proposals in both houses to repeal the eighteenth amendment and modify the Volstead Act.

They had established committees to:

Investigate the Farm Board.

Study veterans benefits.

Inquire into Reconstruction Corporation loans.

Seek additional means of reducing federal expenses.

Scan the St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

Watch campaign expenditures.

Review tax laws, searching out federal statutes that duplicate state levies.

Four Severely Hurt In New Paltz Crash

Four people received severe cuts and lacerations about the head when the Buick sedan in which they were riding left the road near the New Paltz Normal School about 7:30 Sunday morning, struck a telephone pole with such force as to cut it off and overturn the car. The driver of the car, Mrs. Kate S. Pisch, who escaped with slight injury, told Corporal Baker, who investigated the accident, that she was driving about fifteen miles an hour when the car skidded. One of the other occupants of the car, however, when questioned said that he had warned the driver not long before the accident happened that she was driving too fast.

The party were on their way to New Paltz from Dumont, N. J. The car was badly smashed.

The injured people were taken to Kingston Hospital, where they were treated by Dr. Louis Schlingbaum, who reported they were doing nicely this morning. They are:

Mrs. Louisa Pisch, 77, very severe scalp laceration. There were no fractures and she is recovering from the shock.

Frank Pisch, 49, her son and husband of Mrs. Kate Pisch, severe scalp lacerations. It was at first feared that Mr. Pisch would lose the sight of his left eye.

Katherine Richter, 49, a severe scalp laceration, some 10 or 12 inches long.

Albert Richter, 54, scalp lacerations.

PRETTY BLONDE PASSED WORTHLESS CHECKS.

Troy, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—The location of a pretty blonde young woman, charged with passing out worthless checks and the information that she was the daughter of Dr. Frank Parker Day, President of Union College, would be appreciated by police of Troy, Schenectady and Dr. Day. The girl, said the police, purchased articles in large stores, wrote a check in excess of the value of the articles, pocketed the change and ordered the goods sent to Dr. Day's home.

Two Dead, Three Hurt In Automobile Crash Saturday Afternoon

Angeline Arace of Kingston and Josephine Tourisi of Port Ewen Killed In Auto Accident Near Highland—The Injured.

Hitch-hiking from Kingston to attend a dance at Newburgh Saturday night three local girls were picked up near Port Ewen shortly before 5 o'clock that afternoon and fifteen minutes later two of them were killed when the car in which they were riding met with an accident about a half mile south of the Esopus town line a short distance after the car had entered on the two strip concrete on route 9-W.

The dead are Angeline Arace, 22, of 19 Henry street and Josephine Tourisi, 22, of Port Ewen.

The injured are:

Hillis A. Santord, 24, of 73 Highwood avenue, Tenafly, N. J., driver of the Ford coupe in which the five were riding. Injured internally but not considered serious.

Oscar Zimmermann, 31, of 38 Fairview avenue, Bergenfield, N. J., who is at the Kingston Hospital with a fractured skull and in a serious condition.

Mary Arace, 21, of 19 Henry street, Kingston.

Taken To Hospital

All three were brought to the Kingston Hospital after the accident and after beng treated the Arace girl left the hospital but later returned to the Benedictine Hospital for X-ray examination.

Sanford and Zimmerman riding in a Ford coupe, which they had borrowed from a brother of Sanford, had been to visit relatives at Margaretville and were returning. As they passed through Port Ewen the three girls who intended to hitch-hike to Newburgh, hailed them. The five people crowded into the coupe and started south. According to reports the car was being driven at a fast clip. The car had left the three strip concrete and had traveled but a short distance on the narrow two-strip concrete when it attempted to pass a car coming north. This car was driven by John Rotenmund of West New York, N. J. As the cars passed the Ford struck the rear fender of the other car a slight blow but the contact was sufficient to cause the driver of the Ford to lose control. The car left the road and ran over the ditch, struck a ledge and a tree and turned over. The right side of the car is wrecked.

Instantly Killed.

The two girls were thrown through the windshield and were killed instantly. Both suffered fractured skulls.

The driver of the other machine claims he was unaware of the fact that his car had been struck, so slight was the contact, until the other car crashed and he was informed by a passenger that the two cars had come together. He stopped immediately and with others who gathered removed the injured from the wreckage. State Trooper Smith of Port Ewen was notified as well as Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper Baker at Highland. Coroner Conner was called and made an examination. The injured were placed in cars and with Trooper Smith clearing the road they were rushed to the Kingston Hospital.

Officials from the sheriff's office responded and on Sunday, at the direction of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, pictures were taken of the scene of the accident as well as the Ford car.

Coroner Conner after an investigation gave permission for the removal of the bodies and the body of Miss Arace was turned over to the Leo V. Grogan Estate while the body of Miss Tourisi was taken in charge by Jensen and Deegan.

The funeral of Miss Arace will be held Tuesday morning from the late residence, 19 Henry street, and from St. Joseph's Church at 10 o'clock where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be offered. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Services for Miss Tourisi will be held from the late residence at Port Ewen Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and from the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen, at 9:30 where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be offered.

Beside her parents Miss Arace is survived by five brothers and one sister. Miss Tourisi is survived by her parents, two brothers and one sister.

Relatives Arrived

Sunday, Clifton T. Sanford, owner of the car, and George Sanford, brothers of the driver of the car arrived in Kingston. Relatives of Zimmermann also came to Kingston. No arrests were made immediately after the accident by Sergeant Lockhart, who conducted a thorough investigation, but the driver of the car, Hillis A. Sanford, will probably be further questioned and what action is taken will depend on what this examination reveals.

TWO WAR VETERANS HELD AFTER "PROTEST" PARTY

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Two war veterans were arrested today in front of police court as they attempted to organize a protest in connection with the trial of three of their comrades on charges of parading in front of the White House.

The men, Alfred Hale, 48, Detroit, and John Fabroshoski, 29, of Pittsburgh, were seized by police as they were shouting to pedestrians to assemble in protest.

The men on trial were Urban Ledoux, New York social woker, known as "Mr. Zero"; Patrick Hannigan, Detroit, and Nathan [illegible], one-armed New York veteran.

Authorities Will Never Relax Hunt In Lindbergh Case

Trenton, N. J., July 18 (AP).—The light of publicity no longer shines on the search for the murderers of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, but through the dark channels of the underworld the hunt goes on.

Time, and completion of sensational early developments, have cast a screen between the law's pursuit and the public gaze, but pursuit has never been relaxed—nor will it be.

On May 13, the day after the pitiful small body was found in a roadside hollow near the high white home from which the baby had been stolen on March 1, President Hoover himself issued instructions which ever since have been like a beacon leading the emissaries of the law along a trail which can have but one ending.

"Make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby," said the President, "a live and never-to-be-forgotten case."

A Welcome Command.

His instructions were issued to members of federal agencies, but they were accepted as a welcome command by state and city officials as well. The case is still very much alive and there is no possibility that it will be forgotten while the baby killers still roam free.

The state police station at Alpine still is operating as a headquarters for the hunt. Sixteen detectives of the force are on permanent assignment on the case and cooperating with them are members of the municipal police forces of Newark and Jersey City.

Tips still are received daily and every one is run down. State and city investigators who have put aside their uniforms for civilian garb slip away at frequent intervals on secret missions, the results of which are known only to them and their superiors. Into what sinister haunts their information or their intuition leads them, what bizarre disguises they may assume to hide their purpose, and what dread figures of the deepest underworld they may have to consort with at imminent peril to their lives, the public can only guess.

Hunt To Be Endless

All these things the police are doing, regardless of danger. They are doing it willingly, doggedly, endlessly unless that end can be the capture of the persons who are probably as hated criminals as the world has ever known.

Back of this effort stand both Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police who has been in immediate charge of the case since the bay was kidnaped, and Governor A. Harry Moore, who has also from the first been active in spurring every police agency in the state to unflagging effort.

"Is the search for the murderers of the Lindbergh baby still a live and unforgotten case"? they were asked today.

"It is still very much alive," said Col. Schwarzkopf.

"It will never be forgotten," said the governor.

And so some day there may come a sudden turning in the long trail of pursuit at which the hunted criminals will be brought at last to bay. It is that day toward which every man engaged in the search is looking with a gaze which never falters.

Jules Jusserand Died in Paris

Paris, July 18 (AP)—Jules J. Jusserand, former French Ambassador to the United States, died at eight o'clock this morning.

He was 77 last February. For some time he had been suffering from a kidney ailment, but his death was not expected.

Death came peacefully as he lay ill in his Paris home. It was learned that he had been under the constant care of a physician for the past eight days because of a constitution weakened by a series of kidney operations some years ago.

Madame Jusserand was with him when he died.

For 22 years Jean Jules Jusserand was ambassador to the United States, establishing a record for the longest continuous assignment in the history of the Washington diplomatic corps.

He was quiet and unassuming, but those close to him knew that under his administration the French embassy achieved his ambition to unite his own country and the United States in bonds of firm friendship.

The American presidents from Roosevelt to Coolidge were his personal friends. His service began early in the Roosevelt administration and he was the president's companion in many of Mr. Roosevelt's vigorous activities.

He was an important figure in the delicate negotiations involving transfer to the United States of the French rights in the Panama canal.

In 1924, when France was negotiating payment of her war debt to America Premier Herriot appointed Emile Daeschner to succeed M. Jusserand.

The veteran was disappointed, but he remained loyal to his government.

Fatal Accident

$800,000,000 St. Lawrance Waterway Treaty Signed

Effort of 11 Years to Open Heart of Continent to Ocean Vessels and Provide 2,000,000 Horsepower of Electric Energy Must be Ratified by Legislatures of United States and Canada.

Washington, July 18 (AP).—The United States and Canada this morning agreed by treaty to construction of the $800,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway.

In a brief ceremony at the state department, Secretary Stimson signed for this country and Minister Herridge for Canada.

Pending 11 years, the gigantic project calls for development of the St. Lawrence for a 180 mile stretch from Montreal to Ontario—a seven year task. It will enable ocean-going vessels to travel to the heart of the continent, while at the same time provide up to 2,000,000 horsepower electrical energy, to be divided by the American and Canadian sections bordering on the waterway.

It is now a binding agreement between the two administrations, but yet must be ratified by the legislative bodies of the two countries before going into effect.

Stimson Signed.

A minute or so after ten a. m., Secretary Stimson penned his name, to be followed at once by Mr. Herridge.

The Senate has directed that an investigation of the treaty be conducted between now and the opening of the December session of Congress. But Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee specifically stated this was not decided upon because any "suspicion" attached to the treaty. The document calls for two dams.

The upper one in the international section, according to a recommendation of the joint board of engineers, a digest of which was released with the treaty, will be at Crysler Island with two power houses, one on either side of the international boundary.

There will be a navigation canal and lock on the Canadian side opposite Crysler Island.

The lower dam is recommended to be located at Barnhart Island with two power houses, one on either side of the international boundary with a canal and two locks on the American side.

Power To Be Developed

The power to be developed at Crysler Island is estimated at 529,960 horsepower. At Barnhart Island it is estimated there will be a development of 1,607,000 horsepower.

Seven years is estimated by the engineers as a reasonable time for completing the work.

The joint board of engineers estimates that the entire waterway from the Great Lakes to Montreal will cost a total of $543,429,000.

Of this amount it is estimated the United States will spend $272,453,000 and that Canada will spend $270,976,000.

A considerable portion of these sums has already been expended by both countries.

The treaty provides that the diversion of water from the Great Lakes by the Chicago drainage canal shall conform to the quantity provided under the United States Supreme Court decision of April 21, 1930. No further diversion is to be authorized except by authority of the International Joint Commission on which Canada and the United States are equally represented.

Canada's Part

Under article one of the treaty Canada agrees to build and maintain the works in the Thousand Islands section below Oak Point, and to construct, maintain and operate a side canal with a lock opposite Crysler Island and to construct the works required for the rehabilitation of the Canadian side of the international boundary.

The United States agrees to build, maintain and operate the works in the Thousand Islands section above Oak Point; to construct and operate a side canal, with locks opposite Barnhart Island, and to construct works on the United States side of the international boundary.

The works in the Thousand Islands sections have already been largely completed.

A temporary St. Lawrence International Rapids section commission of ten members would be set up, the United States agreeing to provide the funds for the international Rapids section work. The work on each side of the line to be done as largely as possible by nations of the territory on which it stands and with the materials of the country in which the work is done.

The two governments reserve the right to modify these plans by mutual agreement.

Each government will arrange for construction in its own territory of such power houses, superstructures, machinery and equipment as may be desired for the development of power.

Utilization Problem

Each is free to settle the purely domestic question of the utilization of water power.

Another article provides for equal division between the United States and Canada of the water power utilized for power purposes in the In-

President Hoover Praises St. Lawrence Waterway Project

Calls Seaway "Greatest Internal Improvement" On Continent—Ninety Per Cent of Ocean Vessels May Use Waterway.

Washington, July 18 (AP).—President Hoover, in a statement on the St. Lawrence Treaty today, praised that agreement but reminded that to take effect it "must yet be ratified by the legislative bodies of the two governments."

The President's text follows:

"The signing of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway treaty marks another step forward in this the greatest internal improvement yet undertaken on the North American continent. The treaty must yet be ratified by the legislative bodies of the two governments and is not effective unless this is done.

"The treaty represents to me the redemption of a promise which I made to the people of the midwest. It provides for the construction of a 27-foot waterway from the sea to all Canadian and American points on the Great Lakes. Such a depth will admit practically ninety per cent of ocean shipping of the world to our lake cities in the states of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Its influence in cheapening transportation of overseas goods will stretch widely into the interior from these points. Its completion will have a profoundly favorable effect upon the development of agriculture and industry throughout the midwest. The large by product of power will benefit the northeast. These benefits are mutual with the great dominion to the north.

Ten Years To Build

"The waterway will probably require ten years for completion, during which time normal growth of traffic in the nation will far more than compensate for any diversions from American railways and other American port facilities. The economic gains from improved transportation have always benefited the whole people.

"Under the estimates, the total cost will be approximately $543,000,000, of which approximately $272,000,000 will need to be expended by the United States. Some portion of these expenditures has already been made by both countries, and the actual total amount of new funds to be called on from the United States is estimated at about $258,000,000, and from this sum must be deducted the realization which may be made from about 1,100,000 horsepower on the American side of the international section. The disposal of this power is reserved as a purely domestic question in the United States.

Chicago Canal

"The question of the effect of the treaty provision covering the diversion of water from Lake Michigan upon the 9-foot waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi has been raised. I may quote the statement I received from General McArthur, acting Secretary of War, which clarified this question:

'Dear Mr. President:

'I am in receipt of your request for a statement from this department in confirmation of the verbal assurances given to you and to the secretary of state by the corps of engineers, that the provision in respect to the diversion of water from Lake Michigan in the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway treaty are sufficient to provide for the maintenance of the 9-foot waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi.

'I am glad to confirm that the provision in the treaty does provide the necessary diversion for this purpose.

'Respectfully,
'DOUGLAS MAC ARTHUR,
'Acting Secretary of War.'

"The Canadian project of a two-stage development in the international section has been adopted instead of the original American project of a single stage development. The cost is slightly more, but the Canadian officials have felt that the two-stage development is desirable for many reasons, among others for the complete assurance of the safety of the city of Montreal.

"The project is of first importance to the whole continent. The many and extremely complex engineering, legal, commercial and international problems have been worked out by the representatives of both countries in a spirit of cooperation of which all North America can be justly proud."

FAULTY KREUGER MEMORIAL REVEALED BY HUNGARIANS

Budapest (AP)—As an echo to discoveries in Stockholm concerning financial methods of the late Ivan Kreuger, it is announced that a faulty memorial tablet was presented to the Hungarian capital by the match king.

The tablet commemorates the passage of King Charles XII through Hungary when he journeyed from the Crimea to Stockholm. It was given when Kreuger got the Hungarian match monopoly through a loan of $30,000,000, and shows the king on horseback.

Aladar Ballaghy, a professor at the University of Budapest, discovered in a note-book left by a scribe of the Swedish monarch, that the passage through Hungary was made in a coach, but the fact was suppressed while Kreuger remained a financial power.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago—The weather isn't warm enough for his wife, Joseph Wierschowski apparently decided. She told a judge he put red peppers in her bed when the thermometer reached its peak. Wierschowski hopes it is cool in jail, where he will work out a $25 fine.

Hampton Beach, N. H.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt is pleased that a hard hitter will take the stump for him. Told that Gene Tunney would campaign for him, the Governor said: "He should be able to hit hard if he is as good a stumper as a boxer."

Chicago—Chicago police intend to remain dry-eyed. They have adopted a one-way tear gas bomb, which renders the victim hors de combat in 24 seconds and thus cannot be boomeranged back at the police, as some of the old ones could.

London—The leech has lost his hold on the British Pharmacopoeia. The new edition leaves him out, along with camomile.

New York—Aaron Lipschitz, 50, was careful about other people's lives even though he didn't value his own very highly. Before he turned on the gas he printed a sign "don't light any matches" and hung it on a door where a policeman who broke in found it.

London—Young Britons won't have to wrinkle brows any more learning the names of all the English kings. A thoughtful manufacturer has provided them with a pocket knife with the names engraved on the handle.

Chicago—Oh, well maybe three cents to send a letter isn't so bad, after all. Old records show that in 1792 the charge to carry one 450 miles or more was 25 cents a sheet. Letter writers didn't emulate John Hancock then, for every additional sheet cost a quarter, too.

Land Set Aside For Gunnery.

Honey Lake, Cal. (AP)—Approximately 648 square miles of land near here has been set aside as an army airplane bombing and machine gunnery practice area. All of the public land has been withdrawn from settlement.

Two tunnels under the Scheldt river, between Antwerp and Ste. Anne, Belgium, have been begun for completion in 1935.

Stark's Family to Sue Nassau County For Heavy Damages

Mineola, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—Nassau county is to be sued for $100,000 for the death of Hyman Stark, who died after "lengthy "interrogation" during which he received almost countless bruises and had his Adam's apple smashed."

Samuel Liebowitz, attorney, announced during progress of a John Doe inquiry into the death, that he had been retained by Stark's family to sue for the amount of money the former convict and narcotic addict might have been expected to earn during an honest lifetime."

Liebowitz said the damage action would be brought in New York city, and that he already had taken the first steps. He is also counsel for one of the three men arrested with Stark and asserted that their defense on charges of having assaulted the aged mother of a county detective during a robbery" would be "extremely simple."

Ford Receives Water District Minute Book

An order to show cause why the minute book of the Phoenicia Water District should not be delivered to Charles E. Ford, secretary of the water board, and the other papers, etc., of the board deposited with the Shandaken town clerk, was granted by County Judge F. G. Traver Saturday, on application of F. E. W. Darrow, attorney for Mr. Ford. Judge Traver set the hearing on the order for 10 o'clock this morning. The petition asking for the order cited Fred W. Hausman and Joseph J. McGuire, the other two members of the water board, Harvey Clancy, the former member, Arthur B. Ewig, their attorney and Charles W. Walton, attorney for the water district.

At the hearing this morning those interested, with the exception of Attorney Ewig, who was away, appeared and it was agreed that the minute book should be delivered to Mr. Ford at noon today, which has been done.

Mr. Ford brought up the matter of a number of alleged unpaid bills, including a bill for $500 said to be due to the Estate of John W. Eckert, a bill said to be due to County Engineer James Loughran for services, a bill of $360 said to have been due for nearly three years for extension work, a bill said to be due to Conway Bros. He is also insisting that water rents, amounting to between $1,500 and $2,000, according to his statement, be collected.

All of these matters and many others, it is said, will be brought out at the hearing before the Shandaken Town Board on Thursday evening, July 21, on the petition to remove two of the three water commissioners—Hausman and McGuire. Mr. Ford, who is the moving spirit in the matter, succeeded Harvey Clancy as commissioner this spring.

BORDERED CHIFFON

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

If you are up and going in matters of fashion, you will be wanting a dress of some one or other of the new bordered chiffons which are the last word in sheer fabrics. You will appreciate the unusualness of these bordered sheer weaves which carry out their major theme in a penciled outline patterning done delicately in white on either a navy, brown, rust, or black ground, their borders being in startling contrast such as orange with the brown or bright green enlivening navy and so on. In the picture the border is used for the yoke with its cowl neck and to top the sleeves. This model observes style points such as the slenderized gored skirt, also a snug-fitting waistline.

Unusual Colors Mark Summer Dress Parade

If you have an eye for color, you're all set for the summer fashion parade.

For unusual color contrasts, new color harmonies, individual color treatments, are about the most important things in the new mode.

You can't be afraid of color this year—for the new fabrics are being presented in an array of clear, bright pastels and deeper jewel tones that would shame any rainbow.

Violet is all the rage for sportswear. One house that specializes in sports things has devoted its windows to the new violet golf costumes, tennis costumes and spectator sports costumes for lo, these many weeks.

It's a deep, clear shade of violet. None of your wishy-washy lavender and it's tremendously effective, especially when worn with natural color chamois jackets and gloves and such.

About $12,500,000 will be spent for road construction in the Missouri Ozark region this year.

Col. House Advisor To Gov. Roosevelt

New York, July 18 (AP)—"The Little Gray Man from Texas" is back on the political scene, acting as adviser to a presidential nominee who was just a youngster, filling an under secretaryship, when he himself was at the height of his activities—in Washington.

Col. Edward M. House, who picked Franklin D. Roosevelt as his pre-convention candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination as he had picked Woodrow Wilson under the same circumstances twenty years ago, had his most recent chat with the nominee aboard the Myth II off Marblehead, Mass., Saturday.

Colonel House came out months ago in support of Governor Roosevelt, who was assistant secretary of the navy when he himself was President Wilson's adviser and emissary. They had several conferences in Albany, in New York, and at Colonel House's home at Beverly Farms, near Marblehead.

The man President Wilson sent three months before the World War to warn Great Britain, France, and Germany of the imminence of war, will be 74 years old on July 26.

Until he appeared, apparently as a Roosevelt adviser, nothing had been heard of him in a political connection for some years.

There isn't much speculation as to whether he will have any title or take any formal part in the Roosevelt campaign organization. He never did during his long association with Wilson.

The Wilson-House association broke up on what was to the latter a note of mystery. On June 19, 1919, after he had served as Wilson's spokesman at the peace conference, House and the President parted in Paris—never to meet again.

Years later House wrote to a friend:

"My separation from Woodrow Wilson was, and is, to me a tragic mystery, a mystery that now can never be dispelled, for its explanation lies buried with him."

Sandhagen Dead In Fall from Cliff

Heinrich E. F. Sandhagen, 59, a patient at Dr. Foord's sanitarium, Kerhonkson, died there Saturday morning, following a fall from a 50-foot cliff, in which he sustained a fractured skull and other injuries. Dr. W. Cecil Johnston of the sanitarium certified that death was accidental and was due to the skull fracture. Mr. Sandhagen was a partner in the firm of Passavant & Co., silk dealers of 440 Fourth Avenue, New York, and had been at Kerhonkson for a month or more. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for a year or more past. The deceased was born at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, and had been connected with Passavant and Co. since 1893. He was a trustee of the Lenox Hill Hospital and a member of the Lotos and Manhattan Clubs, New York city. His remains were shipped to the Campbell Funeral Church, New York, and later, it is stated, will be taken to Germany, for burial there July 26. He had no family in this country, but leaves a brother and sister in Germany.

REGULATION OF SCRAP YARDS.

There were about 400 automobile scrap yards in the state of Connecticut. Anyone who has ever cast a casual glance at such a yard can realize what blots they were on the landscape, how they blighted neighborhoods and devalued adjoining property. But someone in Connecticut had a bright idea and put it over. A state law was enacted for licensing such places. They could not be abolished; they had a right to operate, along with other commercial institutions; but the state had a right to make them pay a license fee, and to refuse the license if they made public nuisances of themselves. It has done this so effectively that the latest report shows only about 50 out of the 400 surviving, and they are conducted in so respectable a way that, while serving a useful purpose, they do little or no harm to the community.

Here is a body blow at one of the worst evils in the commercial and industrial life of American cities, towns and villages. It is strange that so beautiful and useful a thing as an automobile should be allowed to degenerate into so hideous a thing as it becomes in its latter stages, and that the flaunting of this ugliness should be tolerated in any self-respecting community. Automotive rubbish, like other rubbish, should be kept decently out of the public sight. Scrap piles and collections of old cars, whether in commission or out of commission, might be regulated as part of any decent scheme of municipal housekeeping.

THE LOTTERY CRAZE.

The American public has gone "lottery-crazy," says a post office official. Lotteries seem to flourish in hard times even more than in good times. Last year our easy marks in America had perhaps $100,000,000 taken away from them by clever foreigners, and as much more loss was prevented by the alertness of the federal government.

Most of the lotteries working our American "sucker" population operate in Ireland, Canada and Newfoundland. Our domestic operators are easier to deal with. The lotteries are usually based on horse races. They are often conducted, or at least profess to be conducted, in the name of worthy charities, and thus gain a fictitious moral status which satisfies the conscience of sensitive gamblers. But little good is ever done by them.

Institutions apparently benefiting by receipt of lottery profits say they are likely to forfeit their regular subscriptions and normal bequests, because their patrons lose interest in them. It is well known that the prize winners often find the money a curse to them. Nearly always they are immediately involved in lawsuits and beset by false friends, begging and borrowing and persuading them to do foolish spending. Yet the racket thrives. Lottery addicts seldom break themselves of the habit, and there are always more suckers being born.

PUBLIC UTILITY RATES

Public utility industries, observes a financial writer, have been "shocked" by the decision of the Wisconsin public service commission ordering a reduction in telephone rates. Utility companies of various kinds throughout the country are said to fear a general demand of the same sort.

Such a demand, already developing, should not be considered unreasonable. Telephone, telegraph, railroad, street car, electric light and power companies, gas companies, etc., can hardly expect to avoid the same fate that has befallen other industrial and commercial concerns. Their rates are relatively fixed, and necessarily yield but slowly to any general downward revision. Even so, what has happened to commodity prices and private incomes must happen to them, in fair proportion, if present low levels last much longer.

Reduction, too, may not be so fatal as some of the utility men seem to imagine. They speak of not being able to face rate cuts in view of severe losses in service volume, but reasonable reductions in their cost of service may be the only way to retain or restore service volume.

NO TRIBUTE, NO WAR.

So much is hoped from the Lausanne agreement in restoring prosperity that other implications are lost sight of. One is that the reparations settlement amounts to acknowledgment of the truth that the price of war victory in the modern world is as great as the price of defeat. Another is that the writing off of that huge reparations bill may become a safeguard against war among the nations involved, for the near future, at least.

The Lausanne agreement reveals war as wholly unprofitable. Not only does war involve the immediate destruction of property along with human life. It makes reimbursement for that destruction impossible. If it has turned out this time to be impossible to levy great tribute from the vanquished, it will be so again. If there is no profit in war, and that fact is clearly recognized, there will be no war.

CAUSES OF ASTHMA

Notwithstanding all that has been learned about asthma there are still many sufferers who have to take adrenalin, or other drug during an attack, and have to watch their diet, and other health habits in order to have a fair amount of freedom from attacks.

The treatment of asthma is of course the first consideration, but everything should be done to try to find the cause.

The treatment during an attack, as mentioned above, is the injection of 10 or 15 drops of adrenalin into the skin. Cold sponging with a rough towel is often helpful. Placing the head under the bed clothes sometimes prevents an attack.

In preventing attacks, we are told, that regular exercise, and stimulating the skin by electricity or by heavy massage, are most helpful. Wherever possible a cold bath or sponging should be given as it stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more adrenalin in the system.

It is now generally admitted that certain foods by not being completly digested form substances in the lower bowel that make the body more liable to nervous and chemical changes. It is felt that fats interfere with the proper digestion of these foods.

This means that in these particular individuals meat, eggs, cereals, or other proteid foods should be eaten without the use of much fat—cream, butter, fat meat—during the same meal. Fat slows up, or has an upsetting influence on the digestion of food in the stomach.

The use of much starchy food particularly with fats, should be avoided if food is eaten just before going to bed.

That nasal obstruction is the main factor in some cases has been disputed by many research men, but the evidence is again accumulating to show that the clearing up of nose and throat conditions has cured many cases of asthma.

Other cases of asthma have been found to be due to varrous kinds of dust, and when the patient was removed to another district he became free of asthmatic attacks.

The points to remember then are, first that adrenalin is still the best treatment during attacks, and second, every time an attack occurs the patient should write down just what foods he has eaten that day and compare it with what he ate on the day in which he had a previous attack. This might locate the offending food.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Spending a last evening with Mark Merriman before he sails for the Congo, Sondra Kent wonders how she can face the five years of separation. But she will not marry him until he makes his fortune, she determines, as she has been brought up with the goal—the marrying of a millionaire. Now, she realizes she would not be happy in poverty, with "cheap clothes, a mean house and the eternal grind of trying to make ends meet on nothing a year." She has obtained his position in the Congo from John Anderson, who loves her but cannot marry her because his wife will not divorce him. Mark and Sondra talk about anything except the fact that they care for each other. She wonders how she will be able to get through the last minutes of seeing him off on the boat.

Chapter 7

SONDRA'S APPEAL

It was a beautiful night; a clear sky with a golden waning moon and a breath of coming spring in the air. Sondra sat there beside Merriman in the narrow automobile seat, her hands clenched, her feet pressed hard to the floor.

"I can't bear it. . . . I can't bear it . . ." she was saying over and over again in her heart.

She spoke suddenly, quietly. "Are you in a hurry? Do we have to go home quite at once?"

"Of course not. I only thought . . . where shall we go?"

Mark caught Sondra to him with desperate arms. "I love you. I love you," he told her. ... ...

"Anywhere—it's such a heavenly night."

She moved her arm a little so that it touched his, and she closed her eyes, trying not to think.

He said suddenly with an effort, "A penny for your thoughts," and she answered impulsively:

"I was envying you, wishing I could come too."

She heard him catch his breath sharply, but he answered in a hard voice. "You would loathe it. I believe all women do. There are mosquitoes and enormous spiders and fevers and—and every inconvenience one can conceive."

"I know. John Anderson told me how his wife hated it; but, of course, that's years ago—things may have improved."

"It's not a woman's country."

They drove on for some way, not speaking again. Sondra half dozed beside him; the hum of the engine and the soft air on her face were almost like a soothing narcotic.

When he spoke presently, she started, as if she had really been sleeping.

"Isn't this beautiful?"

She opened her eyes and leaned a little forward, staring at the river far below, gleaming like a golden snake in the moonlight, winding away between wooded banks, far out of sight.

Merriman said suddenly: "Well, wherever I go I shall never see anything I like better than this. We used to live near here when I was a boy—and I often came here and looked over the river and dreamed of all the wonderful things I would do when I grew up. Funny, isn't it?"

"I expect all those wonderful things will come true."

"Do you? . . . I wish I did."

She said softly, "Tell me what they were—those wonderful things." He shook his head.

"They've all gone. . . . I can't remember them any more. I can only remember that . . ." He stopped, and she added for him:

"That on Friday morning the boat goes at 11."

He nodded silently.

Sondra was very still for a moment, then she said quietly, "Mark, don't you think—because the boat goes at 11 on Friday you might . . . you might be quite honest with me—just for this once?"

She felt his body stiffen, but he said nothing, and she touched the hand that rested on the steering wheel.

"Quite . . . quite honest," she said with a sob.

He gave a rough little laugh. "And say things we should both be sorry for—for the rest of our lives?"

"Mightn't we be more sorry . . . if they are never said?" she whispered.

It seemed a long time before he spoke, and then it was in a slow, dull voice, almost expressionless.

"I may be the greatest failure—out there . . . or I may never come home again. Even if I do—there isn't any certainty—how do I know what sort of a future—"

She said with a sob, "Does the future matter? . . . We've got such a little while left."

He moved his hand away from hers almost roughly. "It's not fair to any woman . . . to ask . . . to expect. . . . It might mean years of waiting, and then—at the end . . . nothing. Let me take you home now, Sondra, before I . . . we . . ."

Then suddenly he broke down; he turned and caught her to him with desperate arms.

"I love you . . . I love you. . . ."

And she echoed his words wildly, as if she hardly knew what she was saying, "I love you. . . I love you."

"I never meant to tell you—"

"I know."

"I've longed so to tell you . . . every time we met . . . every moment of the day and night—"

"I know."

"And now it's too late . . ."

She turned her face against his shoulder, her cheek pressed to his.

She said with a broken little laugh, "We've got . . . all the time . . . till the boat goes."

"If only that was true."

She lifted her face and their lips met.

After a long time, when he released her, she said breathlessly: "Don't you think it belongs to us? The little time that is left? It may be all we shall have . . . all our lives."

She felt that she had suddenly gone mad—gloriously, recklessly mad—as if nothing mattered any more but this man and the tenderness of his arms around her.

Suddenly she was weeping. "Oh, I've never had any happiness—or real love, and now you're going away. . . ."

He gently disengaged her clinging arms, keeping both her hands in his. "My darling, you don't know what you're saying—I love you too well. . . . I can't . . . I . . . you're too wonderful to me—I love you too well."

She went on pleading, remembering only that she might never see him again, longing for just one taste of happiness, before it was too late. Already she seemed to see the miles of dividing sea, the long silence, the empty future without love, almost without hope. And one grew old so soon—old and hopeless. . . .

Then suddenly she was silent, her wild words all spent, the bitterness of defeat closing about her heart as she waited for him to speak. Then she heard his voice, broken, shaken with unwilling passion.

"There's only one way, Sondra . . . if you . . . if we . . . if you will marry me . . . before I go."

Yes or no? The decision that Sondra makes tomorrow will influence her future life and happiness.

The Pla Buk, a fish described by Dr. Hugh McCormick, of the Department of Fisheries at Bangkok, Siam, as a "colossal catfish," attains a size in the Mekong river nowhere else reached by this species. The largest ever taken, so far as is known, was 10 feet long.

The catch of the Pla Buk is an annual ceremonial on the Mekong river, between Siam and Indo-China, in which more than 2,000 men take part. No hook, spear nor harpoon is used in the ceremonial catch, only wide-mesh gill nets made of rope are permitted.

Strange as it seems, this giant fish is a strict vegetarian. He lives solely on aquatic vegetation. The Pla Buk has no teeth.

* * *

The bull's horn acacia, a Central American plant, would be at the mercy or hordes of insects, particularly the leaf-cutting Sauba ant, if it did not have a standing army of stinging ants to drive away its insect enemies. Protected as it is by thorns against herbivorous mammals, it need only fight herbivorous insects to insure its safety. This is accomplished by harboring the "acacia ant," called Pseudomyrma, which has a sting like a bee and is dreaded by leaf cutting ants.

The acacia ant lives in the ground during the dry season, but in the wet season he moves to the acacia plant where he finds food and shelter within the plant. The thorns contain a generous supply of food for the ant and, when the food is removed, provide room for nests. Hollowing out the thorns by the ant has been found actually to stimulate growth of the plant.

I. G. A. Convention In Poughkeepsie

More than three hundred delegates are expected to attend the Independent Grocers' Alliance (I. G. A.) convention, scheduled to be held in Poughkeepsie, July 24, under the auspices of W. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc.

The Poughkeepsie meeting will be one of 47 similar regional gatherings throughout the United States. Beginning this week, in Bad Axe, Mich., the convention program will end up in Los Angeles, October 10.

Featuring this pretentious series of trade conferences will be the new I. G. A. 12-reel talking motion picture "Keeping Pace With Progress," which was especially prepared by the industrial film division of the Burton Holmes Studios in Chicago. It will be shown in Poughkeepsie at the morning session of the convention, to be held at the Bardavon Theatre. The story is built around a modern small grocery store and emphasizes practical merchandising methods. It was acted by a professional cast of more than fifty men and women.

Gene Flack, of I. G. A. national headquarters, at Chicago, will have charge of the theatre program. Mr. Flack has been at several Poughkeepsie I. G. A. meetings, and was one of the original group which, six years ago at the Campbell Hotel, conceived and launched the idea which has grown into the largest organization of its kind in existence. An important part in this development was taken by Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., Hudson Valley sponsors of the I. G. A. and first jobbers to affiliate with the organization.

Applications for Audition Received

There is much more interest being shown in the coming prize-winning Atwater Kent auditions to take place in August than was shown last year, which is gratifying to the local committee of which Mrs. Lillian Miller Hemstreet, 77 Pearl street, is the chairman. Already applications have been received from Newburgh, Ellenville, Middletown, Catskill, Saugerties, Poughkeepsie, Woodstock, New Paltz, Milton, Marlborough besides Kingston. Several of the applications are from those who made their first try-out at last year's audition, showing a splendid spirit on the part of such applicants.

The local board in charge of the audition, which will take place on August 19 at St. John's parish house, this city, includes Mrs. Hemstreet, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Harry P. Dodge, Robert Williams, Arthur C. Connelly.

There are also two very active survey committees as follows: Harry P. Dodge, chairman; Vernon Miller, Frank Elmendorf, William T. Hookey, Joseph Craig, Sam Scudder and August Franz, and Mrs. Graham, chairman; Mrs. William M. Mills, Miss Gladys Hopper, Mrs. William S. Eltinge, Miss Elise Hasbrouck, Mrs. Jessie Wolfersteig.

The committees ask particularly that possible applicants in Kingston and Ulster county make their requests for application blanks from any of the committee members at the earliest possible date.

Because of these survey committees it is hoped to reach far more young singers who may desire to enter the audition with the hope of gaining one of the prizes enabling them to take up or carry on their musical education, than was possible to reach last year when the entire project was new in this vicinity.

Beverley Ann Driscoll of Ashland, Wis., high school, has been neither absent nor tardy in 11½ years of school attendance.

Maverick Theatre Presents a Comedy

Woodstock, July 18.—Temporarily abandoning its policy of all new plays, General Manager William J. Rathbun of the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, announces that the Maverick Players will present Dorrance Davis's successful comedy, "Apron Strings," at the Maverick Theatre on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings of this week.

"Apron Strings" had a long run in New York and Jefferson de Angeles had a stellar role. It was generally hailed as a play especially recommended to anyone eager to laugh.

For the Maverick presentation Mr. Rathbun has obtained the services of Farrell Pelly for the de Angeles role. Also he has brought back to Woodstock Emma de Weale, who scored such a hit in support of Miss Cecilia Loftus in the presentation of "When Doctors Disagree." Others in the cast will be George MacQuarrie, Catherine Proctor, Dortha Duckworth, Irene Shirley and William Post, Jr.

The play is one of today with the action taking place in the living room of the Olwell home located in a thriving metropolis within motoring distance of Chicago. In the story Daniel Curtis is a nice young man, properly brought up and nurtured by a very prim and precise mother who wrote advice to the lovelorn through the columns of a daily newspaper. She kept her boy tied to her apron strings, and when a lingering illness took her away, she bequeathed to the son a comfortable fortune and a large batch of letters to guide him through life, including the perilous course over the uncharted sea of matrimony. True to his mother and her memory, Daniel followed her written advice, even when he led the beautiful and extremely modern Barbara Olwell to the altar. His mother's letters were sadly lacking in certain instructions regarding his behavior toward his bride, with the result that his matrimonial venture was nearly split on the rock of disaster ere the apron strings that circumscribed his life and actions were deftly cut by a smart burglar aided and abetted by an obliging bootlegger.

REFRIGERATOR EXPLOSION INJURED SERVICE MAN.

West Shokan, July 18.—Great excitement prevailed at Blue Gates Inn last Monday when an explosion occurred. A service man from Kingston was installing a new cold-hold in the electric refrigerator, when suddenly there was a loud explosion which shook the house. The fire which resulted damaged the pantry and kitchen, which had been recently renovated. Due to the quick action of the service man and one of the guests, the fire was quickly extinguished. With the exception of the service man, who was badly burned about the head and hands, no one else was seriously injured. A registered nurse who is stopping at the Blue Gates Inn administered aid to the injured man until medical attention could be given by Dr. J. D. W. DuMond of Olive Bridge. Mrs. Graves, the proprietor, was fully covered with insurance and has had a new electric refrigerator installed.

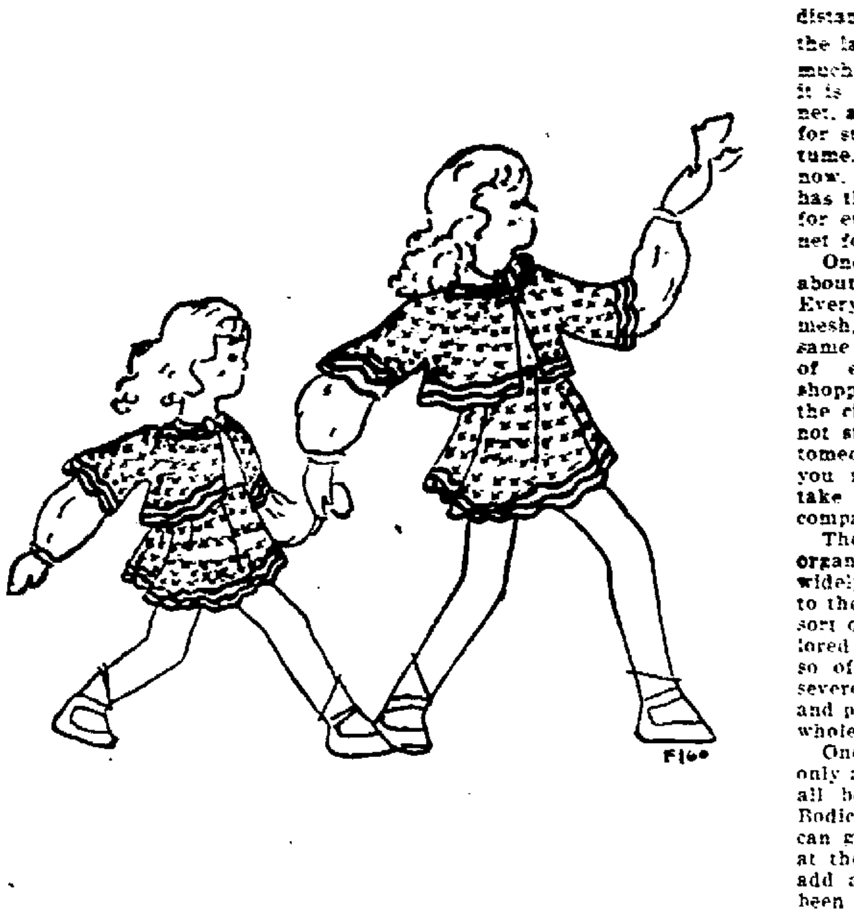
FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

A Juvenile Designs Fashions for Juveniles



Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

A brother-and-sister suit designed by Janice Hubshman, age 11, of the young people's Saturday morning class of the Traphagen School of Fashion. This costume, inspired by an all-over star-patterned George Washington silk print, was awarded first prize at the Annual Exhibition of the school.

Silk Net Joins the Big Parade

New York—There are seasons in which line is the supreme consideration, and others in which fabric outdistances silhouette. This is one of the latter. This season, it is not so much how a dress is made as what it is made of. The one sketched is net, a curious choice, you will agree, for such a trim and tailored costume. But that's the way of things now. It is the unexpected fabric that has the greatest charm. Broadcloth for evening is an example, also silk net for street wear.

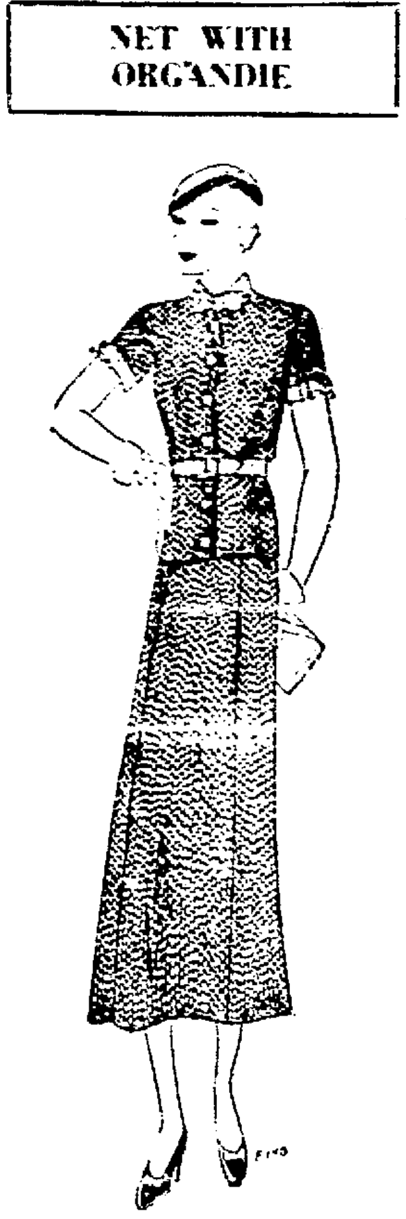
One cannot complain this summer about a lack of ventilation in clothes. Everything is either peek-a-boo or mesh, which mean more or less the same thing. One meets any number of eyelet-embroidered frocks in shopping centers and elsewhere on the city streets. Materials just will not stay where we have been accustomed to think they belong and, as you must have noticed, they also take up with the most unexpected companions.

The idea of tailoring chiffons and organdies, and even laces, has been widely copied. Indeed, one is forced to the conclusion that any and every sort of fabric or dress should be tailored in treatment. The soft fabrics so often chosen for even the most severe handling make for balance and prevent the mode from going too wholeheartedly mannish.

One must face the fact that it is only a matter of time before we will all be wearing high collars again. Bodices have gone as high as they can go, the neckline is now literally at the neck, and it only remains to add a straight collar band—as has been done on the gown sketched. The band in this case is white organdie, and ever so smart, don't you think? High collars are usually centered either by a bow or a brooch. The former may be small, but the latter must be large.

Gold jewelry is on the way back to favor and is considered really the most appropriate kind for morning and general utility wear.

NET WITH ORGANDIE



Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

Illustrated is a two-piece dress fashioned of black silk net, the mesh large and in oval shaping. The neckline is high and is finished with an erect shallow collar of white organdie that ties in a tailored bow. The same white contrast is repeated in borders for the brief straight sleeves, and organdie is also used for the belt, tailored and stitched in several rows.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Among the interesting handbags carried by smart French women at Chantilly was one of white pique velvet. This was square with a flat gusset base and sides, and was mounted in shell, which also made the oblong monogram. The bag was hung on the arm by a self strap.

Turned-back hat brims are newly remarked in Paris. The idea first became apparent in millinery of this season at the Davis Cup Tennis Matches, where turned-back brims, secured by little bows were observed.

It will be interesting to see whether the summer vogue of wide hat brims will resolve itself into a fall one that rolls back the brim.

Blouses of eyelet batiste are well liked for wear with linen suits, and reports from the shops indicate they are often chosen as an accompaniment to cotton as well as linen suits.

Tunics Interpret the Light-Top Mode

Tunics interpreting the light-top, two-piece type of costume are again making themselves evident. To date, they are not conspicuous numerically, but nevertheless make a showing that demands attention. The name of Molyneux, of course, continues to be synonymous with the tunic of three-quarter length, and this special version is coupled with a movement to consider the tunic in lame, an upshot of the general feeling for semi-formal evening clothes.

WOODSTOCK WOMAN HAS A JOB AS CADDY

Woodstock, July 18—Not much taller nor much heavier than the golf bag she was carrying Mrs. Doris Dickerman, wife of Don Dickerman former Greenwich Village night club owner, started to earn her own living today as a caddy on the Woodstock Country Club course.

While absolutely refusing to discuss her husband's business affairs or their marital relations Mrs. Dickerman said that it was necessary for her to earn some money for the support of herself and her three year old child. She had heard that golf caddies were paid 75 cents for 18 holes and sometimes received tips and decided that she could be an efficient caddy. She broached the subject to Richard Gerstell, a member of the club's board of governors, and he had her enrolled as a caddy by the caddy master. He went further by giving Mrs. Dickerman her first caddying job and at the end of 18 holes expressed the hope that she would stick to the job as, in his opinion, she was the most efficient caddy on the course.

Clad in pink striped shorts and a white blouse, her blonde hair waving in the breeze Mrs. Dickerman made an attractive appearance and aroused much favorable comment among the players. She was shown no favors not accorded the male caddies.

Mrs. Dickerman, who has a small cottage in the Maverick section of the art colony, said she did not find toting a bag hard work remarking that she had carried a baby in her arms for three years.

She began her fight for the pension in 1907, following her husband's death.

Police Told Not to Use Third Degree Tactics on Stark

Hearing Opened in Case of Alleged Assailant Who Died After Police Had Questioned Him.

Mineola, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—Assistant District Attorney Martin W. Littleton, Jr. testified today that he had warned police against using any third degree tactics on Hyman Stark, alleged [illegible] of a county detective's mother, who died after eight hours' questioning.

Littleton was the first witness at the John Doe inquiry into the death before Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink. Examination was conducted by District Attorney Elvin Edwards.

"When I was told that Stark and three companions were arrested for assaulting and robbing the mother of a policeman, I realized what might ensue," Littleton testified. "I warned both Deputy Chief of Police Frank J. Tappen and an inspector.

"I even went so far as to cite the Bauer case, in which a prisoner received a black eye. I said 'remember that one black eye may spoil a perfectly good murder case.'"

Questioned 8 Hours

Littleton said that both of the police officials agreed with him that no third degree methods should be used. Stark was questioned by police for eight hours and died late Friday night of a broken larynx. He also suffered a fractured skull and many body bruises.

Deputy Chief Tappen and Joseph Hizenski, son of Mrs. Valeria Hizenski, the woman who was beaten by four robbers who entered her Roslyn home and stole $4 and a cheap ring, have been suspended from the county police force.

Littleton said that he himself took statements from Stark's three companions and that these statements and other evidence in the possession of police were "better than a confession".

"There wasn't even any need to question Stark," he said.

He said that Isse Stein, one of the prisoners, made a statement but refused to sign it.

"It's true," Littleton quoted him as explaining, "but if I sign it the cops will hit me."

Littleton went home after obtaining the three statements and that time, he said, police had given no indication that they intended using any force against the prisoners.

Dr. Earns Attended

After dinner Police Lieutenant Jesse Mayfort telephoned Littleton and said he had called Dr. Thomas F. Earns, a private physician, to attend Stark.

"I asked what was wrong," Littleton testified, "but they wouldn't tell me."

Later Lieutenant Mayfort telephoned the assistant prosecutor again and asked him to go to police headquarters as quickly as possible. When he got there he was informed that the prisoner was dead.

"I was shocked," Littleton said. "We just sat there and looked at each other."

As soo as he recovered his composure, Littleton said, he sent for Inspector Harold King, chief of the county detectives who was out of town, and telephoned for Dr. Otto Schultz, coroner physician, whom he instructed to perform an immediate autopsy to determine the cause of the prisoner's death.

Found Many Bruises

The second witness was Dr. Schultz, who told of the autopsy he performed early Saturday morning.

He said he found numerous contusions on shoulders, chest, back and front of the torso. They were all in pairs and the indications were that they had been made with a two pointed instrument. Both eyes were blacked, both lips cut and bruised, there was a laceration on one side of the head and there were bruises on the shins.

All of this, however, he testified, would not have caused death, which was solely due to fracture of both sides of the Adam's apple, apparently caused by pressure from the front.

"Did your findings indicate that the deceased had been beaten?" Edwards asked.

"They did," Schultze replied.

"Might his life have been saved by immediate medical treatment?"

"If he had been treated at once and a tube inserted in his throat," the doctor replied, "his life might have been saved."

Financial And Commercial

New York, July 18 (AP)—The adjournment of Congress, for which Wall Street had long awaited with manifest lack of patience, brought more profit taking sales than fresh buying into the stock market today.

The brightest aspect of the securities markets was further improvement in bonds, but shares generally turned downward, after some firmness in the morning, particularly those issues which had enjoyed fair advances last week. Selling, however, was in extremely light volume.

Among issues losing a point or more were American Tobacco B, Liggett and Myers B, Consolidated Gas, Dupont, Public Service of N. J., Coca Cola, Case, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Santa Fe, and American Telephone. Gotham Silk dropped 3 points. The U. S. Steel shares held up fairly well and Westinghouse Electric sagged only a fraction, despite its adverse 2nd quarter earnings report. Union Pacific was firm for a time, and McIntyre Porcupine rose to a new peak for 1932. Detroit Edison and Homestake Mining mounted about 5 points, but the latter lost most of its gain.

Some quarters were disappointed at the market's failure to respond with enthusiasm to the ending of legislative uncertainty, but brokers pointed out that the actual event had been well discounted by the fair recovery of last week, and that with adjournment out of the way, there was little in the immediate outlook to inspire fresh buying, what with industry still in the grip of midsummer stagnation, and a number of second quarter earnings statements about to make their appearance.

The second quarter report of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing appeared over the weekend, and as a sample of second quarter earnings that may be expected from a number of important industrials, it was scarcely encouraging. The company's net loss for the period was $1,881,979, or somewhat larger than the loss of $1,220,148 of the first quarter. Nevertheless, the balance showed that this company had been able to maintain a strong financial position, in common with many of the leading corporations, despite diminished business.

The bullishly inclined say that a turn in the stock market should come in anticipation of improved corporate earnings, rather than await the actual improvement, if the market is to live up to its traditional reputation of forecasting business trends in advance. Since 1929, however, the market's reputation as a forecaster has been pretty thoroughly ruined.

SOOTHSAYER PREDICTED MURDER; IT HAPPENS.

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Police shuffled through a slim deck of clues today in their investigation of the slaying of George Carl, storekeeper, foretold, his widow said, sixty hours in advance by "cards of death" she drew from a neighborhood fortune teller's hands.

They held for questioning Ivan Grilec, 38, a brother-in-law of the dead man, who they said had learned, said Mrs. Vera Carl, the widow, a $5,000 insurance policy with double indemnity clause in which she was named beneficiary. Grilec, however, denied having any insurance dealings with Carl.

Mrs. Carl told police she and her mother had warned Carl that on Thursday she turned up three cards which predicted his death at the home of Mrs. Susie Ballo, who has a neighborhood reputation as a soothsayer. He laughed at their forebodings, she said. Mrs. Ballo corroborated their statements as to the "fatal" deal.

Carl was found shot to death late Saturday night in his southside grocery store by his wife and son. The widow notified police after calling a friend, John Pettek. The rear of the store was in much disorder, the cash register overturned and empty.

Police Lieut. Herbert Burns said while Carl might have been killed by robbers, he was investigating also possibility that the slayer had simulated robbery. No weapon was found.

Don twice broke the record in two hours today. On his first run, made shortly after 5 a. m., he negotiated the course a mile up and a mile back, at an average of 117.43 miles. An hour later he and his 22-year-old mechanic, Dick Garner, again started Miss England III in quest of new figures.

The first mile lap, from south to north, on the second run, was covered at 120.50 miles an hour and the southward lap at 119.12, an average of 119.81.

Eastern League Is Forced To Disband

There is no more Eastern Baseball League. The circuit, one of the oldest minor organizations in the country, folded up Sunday at a meeting held in the Hotel Commodore, New York city. Refusal of the New York and Brooklyn clubs to the National League to go any further with their farm teams in Bridgeport and Hartford, respectively, was blamed for the decision.

Fred Voos, representative of the Bridgeport club, and David Driscoll, of Hartford, withdrew from the league's board of directors. The six other clubs, including the Yankees' farm team at Springfield, held a meeting and agreed to continue if the Giants and Dodgers would go along, but they refused, so the league disbanded.

To Get Rid of Grass

Bonus Army Wonders What Is Best Now

Washington, July 18 (AP)—With no Congress to stalk, and a general agreement not to picket the White House, veterans who want their bonus wondered today what to do.

They had no intention of parading on the Capitol plaza and staging demonstrations that would lead to the arrest of their leaders, as they did Saturday, for Congress was not meeting and hence could not be impressed with their desire for bonus cashing.

They were so unsuccessful in their attempts to picket the White House that they had agreed with police that was not so good an idea.

As a result, most of them sprawled about their billets in various portions of the Capital, "waiting" for somebody to suggest something. Some took advantage of the permission to borrow against their bonus certificates enough money for railroad fare and food home.

Just plain weariness struck veterans who had participated in the day and night march on the Capitol plaza that ushered Congress into adjournment and who tried to walk up and down in front of the White House.

HOME OWNERS WHO WANT RELIEF MUST RENT HOUSES

Lester W. Herzog, head of th Albany work relief bureau, is quote as announcing that landlords whos houses are vacant will not be give municipal work relief jobs.

Mr. Herzog's announcement fol lowed the discovery that of the 70 employed in the city's emergency re lief program there were 30 wh owned buildings that were not rent ed.

The claim is that these property owners have refused to lower rent to within the reach of prospectiv tenants and the position of the relie bureau is that while it will not dic tate what rent should be charged i will not give such men work.

Moon's Shadow To Sweep New England At 2,000 Mile Speed During Eclipse

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York (AP)—The meaning of future stratosphere travel speeds of 2,000 miles an hour—something actually moving that fast can be seen in northeast New England August 31.

This speeding object will be the black oncoming edge of the moon's shadow during the total eclipse of the sun which crosses upper Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and a corner of Massachusetts about 3:30 p. m. standard time.

Watchers on mountains and in airplanes should have a good view of the flying edge traveling over broad miles spread out below them. The shadow's speed is announced by astronomers as 2,567 feet a second, slightly more than half a mile. Its shape will be that of a gigantic football, advancing side on, an eclipse 100 miles long and about 60 across.

Starts Near Pole.

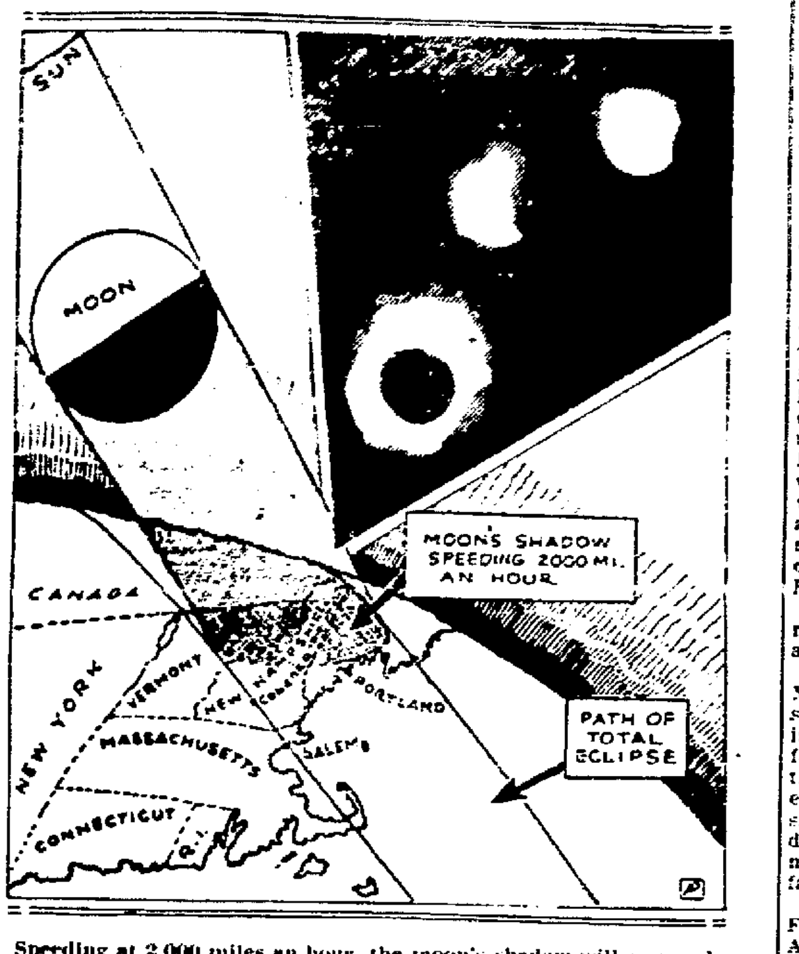
It starts near the North Pole, comes down across Canada, and passes out to sea to make a 6,000 mile journey in three hours. Its last sight of land for the United States is Chatham, Mass., on Cape Cod.

Spectators with a little imagination can sense the earth's rotation while they look at this shadow. Those in New England will be traveling eastward with the earth's rotation at around 700 miles an hour.

If they face east, the shadow overtakes them from behind like an express train at a diamond-shaped crossing. It comes down from the northwest and rushes ahead to branch off to the southeast. Their own travel with earth's rotation being partly in the same direction cuts down the shadow's speed.

This shadow is a black cone extending behind the moon an average of 231,650 miles. When there is an eclipse the earth cuts through the cone. The cut, astronomers calculate, may be made anywhere from just grazing to 18,000 miles inside the tip.

The earth can also miss the tip entirely, leaving it suspended aloft like the lower end of tornado cloud funnel. Under such circumtsances the tip of the shadow may pass anywhere from a few miles to 20,000 miles overhead. The result then is an "annular" eclipse. The sun shows all around the edge of the moon.



Speeding at 2,000 miles an hour, the moon's shadow will sweep down over northeast New England during the total eclipse of the sun August 31. The map shows the path of the total eclipse and the shape of the shadow which will resemble a giant football. At upper right the sun is shown in various stages of eclipse.

Inquiry To Be Made Into Strange Death Of Bandit Suspect

Mineola, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—Long Island's "third degree" scandal—the death of Hyman Stark, young bandit suspect, after eight hours of grilling by police—gets an airing today.

As he prepared to appear before Supreme Court Justice Steinbrink in a John Doe inquiry, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards declared there would be no ""whitewashing" of the police.

Stark died of a factured larynx Friday night, eight hours after he had been arrested as one of four men accused of beating and robbing Mrs. Valeria Hizenski, mother of Joseph Hizenski, Nassau county detective.

Edwards has announced that "apparently an overenthusiastic police officer broke Stark's Adam's apple." The Herald-Tribune said today his life might have been saved had police informed hospital authorities in time that he had been beaten and strangled. If the exact nature of his injury had been known a silver tube could have been put down his throat to keep him from strangling.

Edwards did not name the man or men who struck the prisoner, although Detective Hizenski and Deputy Chief of Police Frank J. Tappen of Oyster Bay, who was in charge of the department temporarily, have been suspended.

The district attorney disclosed that Stark's three companions also bore bruises which he indicated had been inflicted by police.

"I told the police time and again about this sort of treatment and that I would not stand for it," he said.

After the funeral of Stark, undersized East Side youth whose brief career of crime ended in sudden death, friends and others who saw the body declared he must have received a brutal third-degree. Both eyes were blackened and his face was covered with bruises, they said.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, counsel for Philip Cecela, another of the four bandit suspects, charged his client was beaten mercilessly during a nine-hour third degree.

"He got the works," the attorney said, explaining that Cecala's ear was torn, his eyes blackened and his body covered with black and blue spots.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, July 18.—Those present at the Community Church service on Sunday afternoon heard an excellent sermon on "The Childhood of Jesus." The Rev. Mr. Sharp's text was selected from Luke 2:49, "Wist ye not that I should be about my father's business?" The Scripture lesson was taken from Luke 2:1-14; 39-52. The topic of next Sunday's text will be "The Gracious Invitation."

There were a number of city children present at the Sunday school session preceding the church service. The opening selections were "The Swing Song" and "I Need Thee Every Hour." The topic of the lesson was "The Passover," concerning the deliverance of the Israelites in Egypt from bondage. The memory verse, selected from Exodus 12:28, was "And the children of Israel went away, and did as the Lord had commanded Moses and Aaron." The closing selection was "Dwelling in Beulah Land."

The time is gradually drawing near for the Ladies' Aid annual fair and supper to be held August 3.

Robert G. Knorpp, prominent Main street summer resident, is all smiles of late. No, it isn't a bouncing boy, instead a whopping twenty-four inch pickerel which he landed the other day while casting the reservoir waters. On numerous occasions in previous seasons the redoubtable Mr. Knorpp has begiled a moss grown old timer from the unfathomed depths.

Sad news of the unexpected death Friday morning of Mrs. Merrill Avery of Bolivar, N. Y., was received by the bereaved husband's brother, Edward Avery, and sister, Mrs. James Burgher, of Maple Dell Farm. Mrs. Every leaves a family of nine children ranging from two years to a girl in high school.

Two of our well known residents celebrated their birthdays last week. Sanford Bell, hale and hearty, reached his 72rd milestone on Tuesday the 12th, and Martin J. Every, aggressive chairman of the board of assessors of the beleaguered Olive, chalked the three score and ten mark on the lucky 13th. Their host of friends extend congratulations and wish them many happy returns of the day. Chase Davis, boyhood playmate of Mr. Bell, and just two weeks the junior, will be 73 on the 26th.

For the second time this season a camp fire was noticed on the peak of the Balsam mountain on Friday evening. It must be great to camp on a mountain top this warm, clear weather.

Donald Bishop, Mariam Davis, and Vincent Gillen were business callers at Kingston on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Maud A. Graves of Blue Gates Inn, who suffered a nervous collapse through the exploding of the electrical refrigerator early last week, has recovered.

A capacity crowd attended the I. O. O. F. dance last week at Olive Bridge, which is reported as the seasons most auspicious social event. Music was furnished by Ed. Barton's Metropolitans, whose programs are very favorably commended. Thursday evening of this week will be marked by another similarly featured affair to which all are assured of a cordial welcome by the members of the I. O. O. F. entertainment committee.

Mrs. Mary Moore and daughter, Genevieve, also little granddaughter, Edith, of Samsonville, attended church at West Shokan on Sunday.

Mrs. Louise Winchell and grandchildren, Mildred Donaldson and Bobbie Palen, of Kingston, called on Mrs. Chase Davis of West Shokan Heights on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. William MacNeil of Newburgh is staying at "Blue Gates Inn" for the season.

On Friday a party of guests from New York city arrived at the home of Mrs. Minnie Smith. They expect to remain there for a three weeks' vacation.

William Jones of Main Street was a local caller at West Shokan Heights on Saturday.

Bernard Dwyer is busily engaged these warm days painting signs for various stands, inns, and boarding houses. At present he is painting one for the Beesmer boarding house at Brodhead. "Bernie" surely knows the art of making a bill-board fairly speak. While driving along the roadway, just notice the signs which he painted for "The Twin Maples" and the Beesmer house, for they are very attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woolhiser of Brooklyn arrived on Friday at one of the Winchell bungalows, where they are spending the summer vacation.

Garett Mott, the well known and thrifty gardener of Main street, expects to have a prize-winning garden in a few weeks, or at least as soon as we are blessed with a good soaking rain. Of course, there are vegetables in great variety—beans, cucumbers, radishes, tomatoes, carrots, beets, lettuce, and then some. There is quite a bit of weeding to be done, for the Knorpp family did not arrive until last week. Despite the tremendous footing that the quack grass had gained, Mr. Mott, with the able assistance of his brother-in-law, Robert G. Knorpp, has nearly all the pesky weeds under control.

Frank Whittier, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gaignet and Miss Grace Heim, spent the week-end at "Tuckaway Farm."

Charles Lucht and Walter Schmoekel of "The Green Hen," assisted one of the local farmers at West Shokan Heights on Saturday.

The New York Telephone employes are making way for the new line along the boulevard in Brodhead vicinity by cutting and burning brush. The poles, which are smaller than the old line installed in 1913, have been set for some time in sections.

Isaac Winchell of Brodhead Heights has purchased the standing hay on Mrs. Ole Burgher's fields at West Shokan Heights.

This locality failed to make suitable contact with the heavy showers which passed by Sunday afternoon.

Sam Cassalina, a youthful Brodhead haymaker, was a caller among friends here on Sunday.

The cooling waters of Flat Rock swimming pool was a densely populated recreational center Sunday afternoon.

The foundation work for Mr. Van Buren's new residence at his Brodhead development, is completed. Lumber is on the grounds for the construction work which will be started at once. The floor timbers for one of the buildings adjacent has already been laid. Mr. Van Buren has several men employed on the work.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Watson Bishop of West Shokan Heights entertained as surprise visitors, her former summer guests of many years, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Gehle, formerly of New York city, now residing at Ridgewood, L. I. They motored over from Cairo, Greene county, with their daughter, Elinor and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, who were recently married. Mr. Gehle is a nephew of the late well known Henry W. Hartmann, and first came to West Shokan and "Corner Cottage," twenty-eight years ago.

Ralph Jones, of Watson Hollow, local Kelvinator dealer, has sold a machine to Lauren Hesley. Mr. Jones is working from the Van Benschoten agency in Kingston, and covers an extensive territory. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who are newcomers to Watson Hollow, reside at the Boice property near the head of the Hollow. Mrs. Jones, a Maryland girl, is a cousin of Mrs. Raymond Boice and also a granddaughter of the late Gordon Eckert of Olive Bridge, who at the time of his death was the town's oldest resident.

The well known contractors, North Brothers, of Shokan, have Reginald Davis's new bungalow at Olive Bridge practically completed. No doubt about it, Justus and Teddy are hustlers and are very competent workmen.

Frank J. Murphy of Athens, N. Y., made his initial appearance in this locality Saturday with his motorized whitewash spraying equipment. Several farmers had their stables disinfected spick and span, also chicken houses and hog pens. Mr. Murphy does a thorough job and his prices are reasonable.

Haymakers made a ringer last week as every day was fair and the work went right along without a hitch. There was no necessity of keeping an eye cocked for possible showers coming over High Point or the Wittenberg range, and spoil the fun.

Mrs. Sarah Dwyer and Walter Willow of West Shokan Heights called on Mr. and Mrs. John Henrisken on Saturday evening.

Freeman Avery of Watson Hollow has re-sold his farm at Samsonville Heights. The people to whom the previous sale was made were unable to keep up the payments, it is said. Mr. Avery intended to repossess the beloved old farm home this fall with his nephew Mitchell Avery and family who are residing in Watson Hollow.

There is a lively crowd at Maple Dell. Among the guests are a group of ukelele players who are just wonderful entertainers and oblige with an open air concert every evening.

An informal dance was held Saturday evening at Blue Gates Inn, attended by guests and their friends from New York city, New Jersey and Connecticut.

A luncheon party numbering twenty or more prominent Kingston guests were entertained Saturday evening at the famous Watson Hollow Inn on the boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Olive Bridge were callers at West Shokan Heights on Friday.

A number of residents and visitors about this locality attended St. Francis De Sales Church at Phoenicia Sunday morning.

Her many friends will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Florence Donahue of Krumville has returned home greatly improved in health. Mrs. Donahue has been convalescing the past week at the home of her son Clifford and family of Kingston, following a serious operation several weeks previous at the Benedictine Hospital.

Ward B. Smith and daughter Doris, of Philadelphia, Penn., are enjoying a week's vacation visit with his father, Lyman Smith of Shokan. The Smith family for many years were prominent residents in the old village of West Shokan and have many friends about the reservoir locality.

The Mt. Tremper Grange players will give a repetition of their popular comedy play, "Farm Folks," at Winchell's Hall, Shokan, on Tuesday evening, July 19. The affair is staged for a worthy cause to swell the much needed treasury surplus of the Shokan Volunteer Firemen's Association. West siders are extended a most cordial invitation. A reasonable admittance will be charged.

The new tennis court on the Tongore parsonage grounds adjacent the I. O. O. F. Lodge Hall, has been completed. This fine specimen of landscape gardening was constructed by Alonzo Davis who is being highly commended in his accomplishment.

Julian Eckert, the well-known West Shokan Heights teamster, has harvested the hay on the Oakes Mountain Farm Estate at Boiceville. Mr. Eckert has now begun cutting his crop.

Charles Lucht and Walter Schmokel of North Main Street Heights are assisting their former neighbor, John Jordan, at West Shokan Heights, with his heavy hay cutting. Raymond Kelder also is lending a hand.

Jordan brothers of Brodhead were among the community farmers who hayed it heavy last week from their luxuriant meadows. Their fine field of wheat containing several acres and standing waist high is now ready with its golden harvest.

The hay harvester, Ernest Palen, of Brodhead, with the assistance of his aides, Samuel J. Cassalina and his nephew, Clifford Osterhoudt of Yonkers, have made a cleanup of Mrs. Sarah Dwyer's farm at West Shokan Heights.

The new pest, the Mexican bettles, is making havoc with the bean crop in several instances in this locality, while others are noticeably affec One farmer reports that arsenate lead spray applied a bit too strong the consistency for potatoes spray kills both beans and beetles.

Watson Hollow farmers are g ting well along with their hayi Ernest Eckert besides cutting own has gathered the hay from Boice farm above. He was assist by Mitchell Avery and Ernest Be mer of Olive Bridge. Egbert Bo and his right hand man, Alonzo B gher, took full advantage of the week's unruffled haying weather.

ADOLF HITLER: GERMANY'S QUESTION MARK

NO. 1—THE PRIMA DONNA POLITICIAN

This is the first of three articles containing a fresh analysis of Adolf Hitler, whose possible elevation to power constitutes the big question mark of present-day Germany. He may gain high place through the parliamentary elections set for July 31.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

Munich (AP)—Adolpf Hitler, chief of the national socialist movement and who may reach power in the July 31 elections, is the prima donna of German political leaders.

Much as a popular operatic star can fly into a rage and decline to perform, so Adolf Hitler speaks or declines to speak, replies to questions or wraps himself in an inscrutable silence, and appears at scheduled meetings or abruptly absents himself. For example:

The nazis and their allies, Hugenberg's nationalists and the steel helmeters, foregathered at Harzburg last October to demonstrate their unity. After open air services in the morning, the battalions of the "united front" were to pass in review before their respective leaders, Hitler, Alfred Hugenberg and Theodore Duesterberg.

The Hitlerites marched first. Hitler took their salute, then walked off the reviewing stand without as much as glancing at the others.

Holds Up the Meeting.

He also failed to appear at the joint luncheon of the inner circle of "united front" leaders. Only with the greatest difficulty could Hugenberg persuade Hitler to speak at a big public demonstration in the afternoon. The meeting began half an hour late because Hitler sulked about something.

One of the first acts of the Von Papen government was to offer Hitler the use of the government broadcasting station for an address, the Bruening government having denied him this privilege. Thousands of Germans, even those who do not follow Hitler, were ready to tune in, as they were curious to hear the leader of the largest political party in Germany.

Suddenly the announcement came from nazi headquarters that Hitler was too busy campaigning in Hessen to give a radio talk and that Gregor Strasser, reichstag floor leader of the nazis, would understudy the star.

The general public could not see why Hitler, who loves to talk, let pass such an unparalleled opportunity, and one for which he had clamored for months. Herr Hitler thought otherwise, however, and that ended the argument.

Fined for Contempt.

On June 9 Hitler was called to testify concerning alleged financial connections of his movement with Italian fascists and other foreign movements. A Jewish attorney, Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, asked the nazi leader whether it was true that he or his movement had accepted money from the Skoda interests, big arms manufacturers of Czechoslovakia.

Hitler flew into a rage. At the top of his voice he yelled: "I won't answer questions of a Jewish attorney."

The judge fined him $250 for contempt of court, but even that penalty failed to extract further testimony from the irate nazi chieftain.

A nationalist who has a place in the inner councils described joint sessions of nazi, steel helmet and nationalist leaders for the Associated Press as follows:

"Sometimes Herr Hitler is most charming. He seems ready to meet us half way. He shows full understanding of our differing point of view, and we seem on the road to complete understanding. Then, suddenly some word is thrown into the discussion which happens to rub Hitler the wrong way.

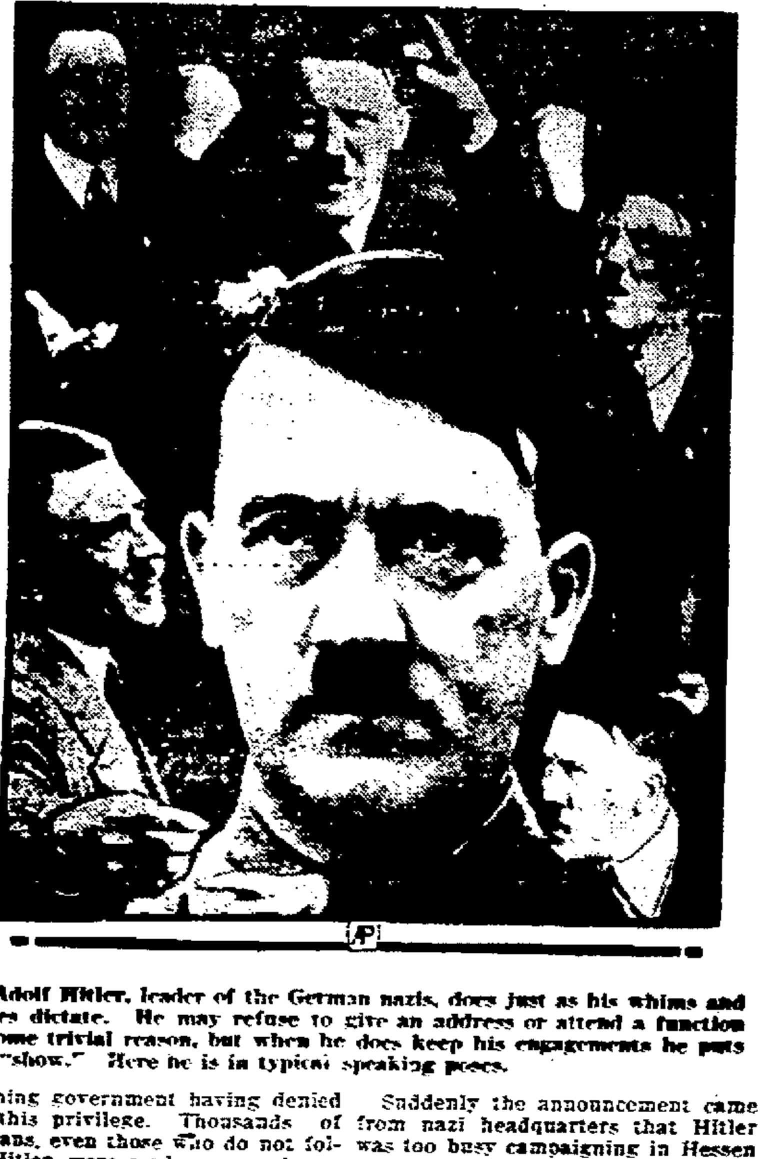
"He folds his arms and shuts up like a clam. His aids must then take up the negotiations while he sits impassive, as though the whole thing did not concern him."

Gets the Stage Set.

At public meetings Hitler's entry is always stagy. He sends in first a band, or a company of uniformed brown shirters, with nazi flags.

A little later come some of his lesser lights. Dr. Joseph Goebbels, for instance, his chief spell-binder, often acts as curtain raiser.

As Goebbels is about to finish, suddenly shouts arise at the rear of the hall. All eyes turn in that direction. Expectancy is at the highest pitch. Prima Donna Hitler has arrived.



Adolf Hitler, leader of the German nazis, does just as his whims and fancies dictate. He may refuse to give an address or attend a function for some trivial reason, but when he does keep his engagements he puts on a "show." Here he is in typical speaking poses.

McEvoy Tells Club About Russians

Woodstock, July 18.—Prevailing economic and social conditions in Russia were described in detail in an entertaining address delivered by J. P. McEvoy, noted author and playwright, before a large audience at the Woodstock Country Club Sunday afternoon.

Mr. McEvoy, who recently returned from an investigating tour of Russian cities, was the guest-artist at the second of the country club's series of Sunday afternoon teas. The series was initiated Sunday, July 10, when J. E. Kingsbury was the speaker. Jefferson Machamer, noted Broadway wit and raconteur, will be the guest artist on next Sunday.

In the short time at his disposal, Mr. McEvoy was able to cover a number of outstanding features of Soviet government and then invited questions to all of which he gave detailed answers.

He described how the Soviets have control of the government even though the people have representative government. Also how the policy of the ruling class was to educate the children along the lines of communism and atheism. Much interest was shown, at least by the questions asked of Mr. McEvoy, in the marriage relations and he told of the system of marriage and divorce as practiced in Russia today. He also stated that the housing shortage in Moscow was so acute that whole families were compelled to live in one room, in fact after obtaining a divorce husband and wife would be compelled to go back and live in the same room together for lack of other accommodations.

Two great events will be given in Clintondale this week. On Wednesday, July 20, the Friends Circle will hold their annual fair and supper. This affair is always largely attended by a great many of county people and is eagerly looked forward to. Booths are being erected on the church lawn for the sale of ice cream, home made candy, potted plants, aprons, towels, and fancy articles. The prices this year are below the prices of previous years and it is hoped that all of the ladies' old friends as well as any new friends will attend. The supper is also nominally priced.

The second big event of the week is the clambake on Saturday, July 23, under the auspices of the Allied Communities Fire Company. During the afternoon there will be horseshoe pitching and a baseball game. Plenty of refreshments will be on ice all afternoon and evening. Tickets can still be purchased at Carr's store, or from John Shay, William York and Allan Decker.

The service and hospitality committee of the Clintondale Grange held a lawn party on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. William Minard's on Friday evening. A goodly crowd was present. Members of the committee are Mrs. William Minard, Mrs. Harry Gerow, Mrs. Lizzie Schepmoes, Mrs. Mabel Mount and Mrs. Emma Cole.

The Wallkill A. C. won a game from the Paul Gaffney All Stars of Clintondale on Thursday evening by a score of 8 to 3. This is the second game played by these teams, each having one to their credit now. Clintondale boys have won the first round of the Highland Twilight League.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Love Starved" and "Fanny Foley Herself". A first run double feature offering with Helen Twelvetrees the star of the first picture. Edna May Oliver is the featured actress in the second talkie, and she proves as much of a comedian as ever in laugh producing tale of the radio industry.

Orpheum: "Skyline." A cross section of the life in the greatest city on earth, with a cast that features Thomas Meighan, Hardie Albright, and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Broadway: "Winner Takes All." James (knock them down and drag them out) Cagney puts across another winner in this fast moving, exciting tale of the prize ring. This show is an authentic story of a fighter with more brawn than brains, who wins his battles with punches rather than science. A blonde siren lures him away from his swetheart, and the fighter has his face remodeled and gives up training. What happens in his championship fight, when he learns the blonde adventuress is playing him for a fool, has enough wallop to please anyone. Cagney is at his best in this enjoyable, rough story of the pugilistic racket, and the play is swell entertainment for those who like their talkies a bit hard boiled. A fine supporting cast includes Marion Nixon, Virginia Bruce and Guy Kibbee. Four star entertainment.

Ritz: "Private Scandal," with Marion Nixon and Lloyd Hughes.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Tabu" and "Without Honor." The first picture is an epic of the south seas, with a native cast, and some of the most beautiful photography ever shown on the screen. F. W. Murnau was the director of this exceptional talkie. Harry Carey is the star of the second feature, a melodramatic offering that contains excitement and thrills.

Broadway: Same.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Band.

The regular weekly rehearsal of the Jr. O. U. A. M. Band will be held Thursday instead of tonight, owing to a death near the hall. All members are requested to be present Thursday night.

Sharks Great Swimmers

Sharks have a most extraordinary power of swimming, great endurance, and a rapidity of motion. Many large ones inhabit the open ocean, following ships for weeks.

Kingston Legion Juniors Defeated By Valatie Club

Kingston [illegible] juniors competing for the American Legion championship lost their first game of the season Saturday at Hudson where they were downed by the Valatie nine. [illegible] had a considerable bearing on the downfall of the Kingstonians who allowed their opponents to score four runs in the sixth inning. Uhl and Vanderzee did the pitching for Kingston, [illegible] Ames for Valatie.

Another game between the teams will be played at the Kingston Fair Grounds Wednesday evening, starting at 6:15 o'clock. If Valatie wins this contest it will advance in the state eliminations, but the local boys hope to even the score and then take over their rivals from Columbia county in a third meeting.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Chalmers Cissell, the $123,000 beauty who never could play anywhere near that amount of baseball for the Chicago White Sox, at last begins to resemble the player he was supposed to be when he appeared on the major league scene five seasons ago.

It is the Cleveland Indians, however, and not the White Sox, who are cashing in on the second baseman's long delayed rise to stardom. In his four years with the Sox, the Portland product never hit higher than .280, and he fell to .220 last season. He's cracking the ball at a .303 clip for the Indians, and the box scores reveal he has been getting his hits where they count on the tribe's present rampage through the east.

Willie Kamm, another coast star who cost Chicago a pretty penny back in '22, is playing bang-up ball at third base for Roger Peckinpaugh. The pair have rounded out an infield that stacks up defensively with the best of them.

Win 12 Out of 14

By winning yesterday's double-header from Boston, 5 to 4 and 8 to 6, the Indians stretched their spree to 12 victories in 14 games on the road. Cissell and Kamm each drove across a run in each contest, Kamm featuring the nightcap with a double and two singles. Tom Oliver, star Sox outfielder, was injured in the first game when he crashed into the fence to rob Averill of a home run.

For all their winning, however, the Indians are finding it difficult to whittle down the Yankees' big lead. The New Yorkers also captured a Sunday double-header, taking the Chicago White Sox by scores of 4 to 3 and 3 to 2. Babe Ruth's single won the first in the 12th inning, and Charlie Ruffing pitched and batted his side to victory in the nightcap.

Foxx's Homers Help

Washington's winning streak was stretched to nine straight with a 9 to 2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Joe Kuhel and Dave Harris each knocked in three runs. Jimmie Foxx's two home runs, his 37th and 38th of the year, helped the Athletics tame the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3.

The Chicago Cubs picked up a full game on the idle Pittsburgh Pirates when Pat Malone and Charley Root quelled the Giants, 3 to 1 and 8 to 2. Malone allowed six hits and struck out seven in the first.

The Boston Braves also gained ground on the leaders by socking Cincinnati twice, 5 to 3 and 3 to 1. Horace Ford, subbing at shortstop for the Braves, drove in three runs in the first game and two in the second.

St. Louis and Brooklyn divided honors, the Cards winning 9 to 2 behind Paul Derringer and then losing the second, 8 to 5, when the Dodgers fell on Dizzy Dean and two relief pitchers for seven runs in the eighth and ninth frames.

Frankie Frisch, Card second baseman, received a certificate attesting he was the most valuable player in the National League last season and then watched both contests from the bench.

Pressing Competition For U.S. Athletic Stars

Palo Alto, Calif., July 18 (AP).—The main battle now looms ahead for the American Olympic track and field team, emerging today with a few earaches and sore muscles after the record-smashing final tryouts and the intersectional sharpshooting along the sidelines.

Despite the utter abandon with which Uncle Sam's best athletes performed, cracking open four world records, equalling two others and surpassing the best Olympic records in 10 out of 18 final events. Head Coach Robertson and his assistants expressed the belief they will be hard-pressed in the international competition at Los Angeles.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Eddie Eagan's entertaining book, "Fighting for Fun," throws the light on one of the most unusual amateur athletic careers on record.

The Colorado boy who went to war, to Yale, to Oxford and boxed his way around the world just for the sport of swapping left hooks, seems to have enjoyed himself immensely. Yet he had a difficult time resisting the temptation to turn professional. Recurrently, through the schoolboy stages of his career, he defends himself, but it took Gene Tunney's advice, apparently, to finally check a strong impulse to turn "pro."

"It's not worth it," Tunney told Eagan, as the professional and amateur heavyweight champions meet in Colorado Springs. "You don't know what a champ has to put up with until you are one. It's a long road to the championship. I was years getting my chance. It takes lots of fights to get to the top and then it's a matter of luck.

"You wouldn't start at the bottom, it's true, but the bees are busiest around the top of the honey jar. There are plenty ahead of you. Maybe you can lick 'em all, only remember the better you are the harder you'll find it to get matches with top-notchers . . . You're ready to tackle law. It won't help your career a bit to be known as a former pug. People just don't associate brains and pugilism. . . ."

Years earlier, in Denver, Jack Dempsey boxed an exhibition with the youthful Eagan, showed him some tricks of the game and advised: "Stick to college, kid. I wish I had your chance. The professional gets darn little money and lots of punches."

The future Rhodes scholar and Olympic champion might not have been so willing to accept this advice if either he or Dempsey had known the big money that was to be collected during boxing's later boom times. Eagan nevertheless resisted offers from Tex Rickard as well as London promoters to turn "pro" after it was apparent he could very likely "clean up." If he has any lingering regrets now, he does not indicate them.

Against Olympic Boxing.

It may interest the Olympic moguls to have Eagan's viewpoint on the fistic sport's place on the international program.

"I have been to three Olympiads and seen all the events," he says. "It seems to me that the object of the games, good fellowship and sportsmanship between nations could be better achieved without the boxing events.

"The decision of two inexperienced judges is often wrong—science, skill in footwork and clever countering blows are often not appreciated by the judges if a favored national charges in continually like a maddened bull. I have seen biting in the clinches, knives drawn by spectators, and policemen using their clubs at the boxing matches when a decision seemed unfair."

Dempsey Best Fighter.

As to the two great men of pugilism with whom he boxed and associated on friendly terms, Eagan says: "In my opinion Jack Dempsey is the greatest fighter and Gene Tunney the greatest boxer in ring history. Of course I did not see the old-time champions, but I think boxing has evolved upward just as every other sport has. Fighters today know more about training and scientific living than the earlier champions ever knew."

Golf Tournament At Woodstock Club

Woodstock, July 18.—Mail Wilcox of Philadelphia and Forbes Walker of Woodstock were the winners of an invitation round robin doubles tournament held at the Woodstock Country Club Saturday.

Mr. Wilcox, who is a week-end house guest of Peter Whitehead at Byrdcliffe, and his partner defeated Mrs. Winifred Hutty, Jr., and Gordon Malloy in a hard fought contest.

There were 30 entries for the tournament and partners were drawn for and then divided into two groups, the winners of each group entering the finals.

Mrs. Hutty, Jr., and Malloy were winners of the first group with 19 out of a possible 24 points just nosing out Leith Ross and Miss Klingstein who had 18 points. In the second group Messrs. Wilcox and Walker accumulated 20 points while Russell Lee and N. Lee, the runners up, scored 18 points.

The tournament was run under the supervision of J. H. Stagg who expressed appreciation for the large turnout of players from the Maverick group of tennis players.

The competing teams as drawn were: Group 1, Miss E. Time to Break Up Party

Old Blank had three of his acquaintances for an evening at cards. About 1 o'clock the host, as was his custom, commenced to yawn, and one of the men present, who was not familiar with his habits, said diffidently:

"Well, I think perhaps we ought to be going now."

"Oh, no," returned one of the others; "you mustn't pay any attention to Bill's yawns. We never start to make a move from the house until we can see his tonsils."—Stray Stories.

American Legion to Sponsor Boxing Bouts This Friday Evening

The former miniature golf course at the corner of Broadway and West O'Reilly street, which is overgrown with weeds, will soon be turned into a boxing arena for the card of amateur bouts this Friday night under the auspices of the American Legion. It was expected that work of transforming the golf garden into a fistic center would get under way today.

Matchmaker for the Legion bouts is Carl J. "Doc" Studer who has announced the following bouts:

Main Event.

Jack Jerry Wright of Poughkeepsie, amateur heavyweight champion vs. Jack Sullivan of Marlborough, contender, 6 rounds.

Semi-Final.

Buddy Emerson of St. Remy vs. Joe Turck of Kingston, 6 rounds.

Preliminaries.

Johnny Law, Cementon vs. Charlie Carpino, Kingston, six rounds.

Charlie Smith, West Hurley vs. Mickey Raymond, East Kingston, 4 rounds.

Duke Wade, Kingston Point vs. Wild Bill Shafer, Malden, 4 rounds.

Jimmy Costello, Port Ewen vs. Tony Quintiana, Marlborough, 4 rounds.

Max Kohler, Germany vs. Max Schuler, Poughkeepsie, 4 rounds.

Colonials Bow to Bushwicks, 3-6, at Saugerties Diamond

Ted Fraleigh's pitching was a little too much for "Kid" Moore's Colonials at Saugerties Sunday afternoon and they bowed to the Bushwicks, 3-6. All of the Kingston team's three runs came in the first inning after which Fraleigh settled down and held the Moores scoreless. Besides starring on the mound, the Bushwick hurler did some outstanding bat work, driving in three of his team's runs. Opposing Fraleigh was Jack Dodge who allowed eight blows. Only five were of the clean variety.

Messengers of Mid-Air

Astronomers are pretty well agreed that the interstellar space is filled with material of one kind or another wandering about. Around the sun revolve particles for the most part no larger than peas, but occasionally as large as all that is left of comets that have burst asunder or that were torn apart by gravitational forces in their wanderings. When this wreckage drifts near enough to the earth it is diverted. Friction with the air then gives us a display of what we call "shooting stars."

Chocolate Favored To Defeat Berg, 7-

Jack (Kid) Berg and Kid Choc late are ready for their fifteen-rou bout, which will feature the card the Madison Square Garden Bo in Long Island City tonight.

The bout probably is the most i portant lightweight battle sched for the New York district this su mer, aside from the champions battle between Tony Canzoneri a Billy Petrolle, which will take pla August 8, and for that reason is e pected to attract a large crowd.

The contest will be a return mat Berg and Chocolate met at the Po Grounds two years ago and Ber was declared the winner after a clos stubborn struggle. The defeat wa the first sustained by the Cuban i his entire career. However, Choco late is expected to reverse the de cision tonight. He is favored at odd of 7 to 5.

A round by round report of th fight will be broadcast over WEA NBC with Charles Francis Coe at th microphone. Scheduled starting tim is 10 o'clock.

The Rosendale Nine Blanks Philcos, 4-0

Horace Ford, Braves—Led Braves to double victory over Reds, driving in five runs with triple and four singles.

Pat Malone and Charlie Root, Cubs—Held Giants to 14 hits in two games.

Senecas Forfeit To Mt. Tremper Nine

The Kingston Senecas forfeited their Sunday game to Mt. Tremper during the last half of the eighth inning when the score stood 5 to 4 in favor of the Senecas. At the time the Kingston team walked off the field Mt. Tremper had a man on second and a man on third with no outs. There were numerous arguments throughout the game and the climax came in the eighth when Mt. Tremper was in a scoring position. A dispute over the umpire's decision at second base caused the visitors to leave the field. The game was forfeited to Mt. Tremper. Pitching by both the Senecas and Mt. Tremper moundsmen featured the game.

July Fruit Report For New York State

The Farm Bureau has just received the following fruit report from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets prepared through the cooperation of the members of the State Horticultural Society.

General Conditions

Blooming of fruit trees averaged from four to six days later than last year for the state as a whole. The damage from spring frosts and freezes was negligible. Dry, sunny weather through much of the blooming period permitted good pollination by bees or by wind. Disease and insect control have been excellent in well cared for orchards. Conditions have been fairly favorable for spraying. Poorly tended orchards are suffering badly from both fungus and insect troubles in many localities. Low prices of farm products, and, in many communities, impaired credit facilities, have interfered with satisfactory care of orchards.

Apples

The outstanding feature of the apple situation is the fact that while prospects for most other varieties are good, Baldwin apples will be scarce. This variety averaged only 26 per cent of a full crop, compared with 72 last July 1, and is the lowest in the eleven years these figures have been available. Baldwins are by far the most important of the varieties.

McIntosh at 78 per cent is the highest in the 12 years for which records are available, and with an increasing amount of bearing surface should be an abundant crop. Greenings at 69 per cent in contrast to 39 last July; while Northern Spy at 56 is above average for that variety. Dutchess, Wealthy and Ben Davis also look well. The Hudson Valley and the Champlain Valley have relatively better prospects than most other sections.

The state average per cent of a full crop is reported at 63, compared to 66 last July. The final outturn will, of course, depend on weather conditions and the degree of damage from insects and diseases.

Peaches.

Peaches are very promising in all the commerical areas, and especially in the important commercial areas, both east and west. This is in sharp contrast to the very light crop in the states to the south of Pennsylvania and Michigan. Both Elbertas and the early varieties are good. The state average of 87 per cent points to a bumper crop. It should be borne in mind, however, that there has been a very sharp decrease in the number of peach trees, especially since 1925, so that in comparison with the large crops sometimes borne before that date, the 1932 crop will appear only moderate in size.

Pears.

There are excellent prospects throughout the state, with an especially abundant crop in sight in western New York. In the Hudson valley there will also be a good crop. Bartletts are relatively best with Kieffers and Seckels next in order, the state average per cent of a full crop being 75, compared with 36 per cent last July 1 and 69 per cent in 1930.

Grapes.

The grape growing section on Lake Erie is not adequately represented in the reports. Hence, the condition of 86, as reported for the state may be out of line. In any case, a less abundant crop than last year would be indicated.

Ulster County Fruit Prospects.

In Ulster county the entire apple crop is estimated to be 66 per cent of a full crop. This is slightly higher than the percentage for the state. Baldwins are estimated at 33 per cent compared with 26 per cent for the state. A good crop of McIntosh can be expected, the percentage being 82 per cent of a full crop. This is higher than the state average.

Seven Errors Cause Downfall of Pan-Ams

Despite a rally in the ninth inning the Pan-Ams were unable to measure up to the Alphas of Cementon Sunday afternoon at the Saugerties road diamond and lost by the narrow margin of 7-8. The defeat was the first of the season for the Oilmen, who played loose ball, committing seven errors. The visitors took advantage of every miscue. Wiedemann, pitching for the Kingstonians allowed seven hits. Schlenker was touched for 10 by the home team, Palmer leading the attack with two triples and a double out of five tries at the plate.

Triangle Club to Meet on Tuesday

The Kingston Triangle Club will hold a meeting Tuesday evening at 6:30 at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Glenerie. The members will leave the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock where transportation will be provided for those desiring same.

A splendid program of sports has been arranged and a real evening's outing will be enjoyed by those attending. Members are urged to telephone the Y. M. C. A. not later than Monday evening if they cannot attend in order that proper arrangements can be made for the dinner.

TUNNEY DENIES BEING OFFERED FARLEY POST

Reports were current yesterday in New York boxing and political circles that Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, is to succeed James A. Farley as a member of the New York State Athletic Commission. Farley is expected to resign shortly because of demands made upon his time by the Democratic presidential campaign.

"This is the first I have heard of any such story," said Tunney to the New York Times, when reached by telephone at his home in Greenwich last night. "No offer of any such position has been made to me and, as far as I am aware, no such offer is in contemplation."

Firemen to Be Host to Children

The annual outing of the children of the Industrial Home as guests of the Kingston Paid Firemen's Association will be held on Thursday, August 18 at the public camp site in Stony Clove [illegible] known as the "Devil's Tombstone." The trip will be made by automobile and at the camp there will be games and plenty of good things to eat for the young guests of the firemen.

In previous years the youngsters were entertained at the Central Fire Station and then taken for an auto ride around the Ashokan reservoir. This year it was decided to change the place of holding the outing.

PROSPECTS FOR SMALL NATIONAL FRUIT CROP

According to the special fruit report which the Farm Bureau just received from the Department of Agriculture, the National fruit crop is much smaller than last year. This should create a good market for New York State fruit, particularly Ulster county which has a very good crop.

The report shows that present conditions indicate an apple crop of 133,824,000 bushels which would be 34 per cent less than the 1931 crop and about equal to that of 1929. The June drop has been heavy in many sections.

The total United States crop of peaches is likely to be about 47,216,000 bushels, judging from present conditions. This would be 38 per cent below last year. The forecast of production for the 10 southern states on July 1st, is 5,972,000 bushels which would be about 73 per cent less than the 1931 crop and about 35 per cent less than the crop produced in Georgia alone in 1931.

The indicated production for pears is 21,503,000 bushels for the United States or about 8 per cent less than the 1931 crop and 2 per cent larger than the crop of 1929.

Big Grape Crop.

At present it looks as though the national grape crop will be about 2,142,000 tons or about 32 per cent larger than the crop. However, the production of grapes in all states, except California will be about 7 per cent less than last year and 13 per cent more than the five year average.

FIRST LOCAL SWEET CORN IN THE MARKET

Several of the vegetable growers in the vicinity of Kingston picked their first sweet corn last Friday and Saturday. A few hundred ears were sold on the market, which is conducted each morning on lower Hasbrouck avenue at the Strand, Saturday morning. The early varieties of sweet corn will be available in larger quantities shortly and all varieties will be ready soon.

Everybody likes fresh home grown sweet corn. It is so much better than the wilted corn that is shipped long distances. This also holds true of all other fresh vegetables. Consumers should purchase local produce, because an ample volume is produced in Ulster county to supply the demand.

Ambulance Calls Here.

Saturday the ambulance removed Mrs. J. R. Keane from 33 Wall street to the Kingston Hospital, and Milton Tompkins from 39 Prospect street to the Kingston Hospital. On Sunday the ambulance removed Jennie Kerr from the Kingston Hospital to the Orthman Sanitarium.

News of Today In Kingston

The number of accidents on 9-W route between Newburgh to Kingston, is appalling and the seriousness of them is even more disturbing. In the majority of cases the car or cars involved were driven at too fast a pace for safety.

The road itself suggests speed but not danger. Three strips of concrete are rather inviting, especially when one is out to make time, and that's what many of them are trying to do, but time trips them up now and then.

The Trooper on the Kingston-Newburgh, 9-W route, asked the writer of this column two months ago to print his requests in regard to the speed on the road in and out of villages. It was done but evidently few heeded.

For those who missed it before the list went something like this:

Through Port Ewen and other villages, 30 miles per hour.

On the open road not over 55 miles per hour.

Don't try to pass three abreast.

Stay inside the white line on turns.

Obey the signs posted along the road. They're there for your benefit.

Don't pass on hills either going down or up and always keep in mind the saying:

"The slower you go the oftener you get there."

A little more consideration should be displayed on the open road at night. For instance, if you have a brigh pair of headlights give the driver coming towards you a break. Turn them on dim for a few seconds until he gets by.

The tax on gasoline doesn't seem to affect the owners of yachts or of speed boats. There are plenty on the river, morning, noon and night. Especially over the week ends. They cruise along defying Uncle Sam's addition to the price.

On the other hand sail boats are coming in again. Whether they're increasing or not, is hard to say for the census of the non-motor driven boats was not taken last year.

However, the sail boats do one thing. They add to the scenery of the river. To see one of these crafts with its sails full in the breeze and leaning slightly to one side as it pushes its way through the water, really makes a pleasant picture that will attract and hold your attention for some time.

Baseball is beginning to show the effect of bad times. The Eastern Baseball League went on the rocks.

In the eastern cities the people depended on the large manufacturing plants but it is understood that these have closed down. In Bridgeport, which was one of the teams in the league, industry is at a standstill and of course it was the average working man that supported the ball clubs by attending the games.

It has been reported now and then that major league games were not being attended the way they have been in the past, and of course the salaries of the ball players have not dropped any. In fact each year every man tries to get more.

Roosevelt Faces Many Problems

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—A busy week is ahead of Governor Roosevelt, who returns today from his yachting trip up the New England coast.

Besides the problem as completing his campaign plans as the Democratic presidential nominee, the New York executive will find a number of important state matters pressing.

The Mayor Walker case, unemployment relief, next year's budget and even the possibility of a special legislative session will occupy a good deal of his attention in the next few days.

Mayor Walker's reply to the charges of Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstader legislative committee which investigated his administration, is expected in Albany before many more hours, possibly today. Seabury has postponed a scheduled European trip until the reply is in the governor's hands, to discover whether Mr. Roosevelt calls a public hearing as in the case of Sheriff Farley of New York, whom he removed.

The development yesterday at New York of the first organized move for a special session of the legislature for further public relief lent added significance to the governor's scheduled conference next Thursday with legislative leaders. Senator George R. Fearon and Speaker Joseph McGinnies will consult him on the possible need for calling the lawmakers together.

With scarcely $5,000,000 in the fast dwindling state relief treasury, and the need for relief growing daily, need is seen for an additional appropriation before many weeks. This was also in the mind of the new "state-wide joint committee on unemployment relief," formed at New York with Bishop Francis J. O'Connell as chairman, when it announced yesterday its purpose was to bring about a special session. The committee's aim is to have New York prepare at once to share in the $300,000,000 relief money to be made available to the states by the federal government.

Mettacahonts House Destroyed by Fire

Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock fire destroyed the two story house owned by Charles and May Wilson at Mettacahonts. The fire was discovered in the back room on the first floor and spread rapidly throughout the structure. Neighbors were summoned but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building. The premises were occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walker and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Friedman of New York city, who lost considerable personal effects.

There was some insurance on the property.

The cause of the fire is unknown and Deputy Sheriff Mortimer H. Block of Accord who was called is making an investigation to determine the origin of the fire.

ACCOUNT OF TRUST AGREEMENT HEARD

Among the important matters disposed of by Judge Loughran at Friday's special term was the account of the Kingston Trust Company for the past five years as trustee under the provisions of a trust agreement drawn by Judge Clearwater as counsel for the late Samuel M. Gray and approved by Judge James Jenkins as counsel for Miss Ethel H. Gray by which the Trust Company was created trustee for Samuel M. Gray, Jr., the half brother of Ethel H. Gray, until he becomes 21 years of age.

Senator Walton appeared for the Trust Company. Judge Clearwater for Mrs. Verna M. Gray, the widow of Samuel M. Gray, general guardian and guardian in socage for her son, Samuel M. Gray, Jr., and as guardian ad litem for the latter.

The judge said he had examined the account of the trustee, the securities held by it and its certificate for the cash balance in its hands: that so far as he could determine the trust admirably had been managed and bid fair amply to provide for the education and wants of Samuel, Jr., until he became of age, at which time the balance of the trust fund would be paid to him under the provisions of the trust agreement.

HOME BUREAU TO HAVE BENEFIT AT ELVERHOJ

The Ulster County Home Bureau is to have a benefit night at the Elverhoj Theatre, Thursday evening, July 21, at 8:45 o'clock Daylight Saving time when the play, "The Queen's Husband" is to be presented. Robert Le Suer, who gives another of his striking characterizations as "Phipps", and other Elverhoj players who have proved themselves successful: Alan Campbell, Evelyn Peirce, Joan Hathaway, Ethel Borden who will play the queen and W. Messenger Bellis, the globe-trotting actor, are to participate.

Tickets for this comedy may be secured at the Home Bureau office, 250 Wall street, Kingston.

NEW RECORD OF 65 MILES SET BY FLYING GLIDER

Elmira, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—A new record of 65 miles for glider flying had been chalked up today for the entrants in the annual national gliding meet here to fly at.

With nothing but the wind to propel him, pilot Martin Schempp of Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday took off in his motorless glider and flew to Gellatt, Pa., 65 miles away. The farthest an American glider had ever been flown before yesterday was 17.5 miles.

If Schempp had failed to fly to the Pennsylvania village, through some error in riding the winds, the record would have been broken anyhow by another flier. John O'Meara of New York, at the same time, was en route to Binghamton, N. Y., 38 air miles away, although he flew 55 miles before he arrived there.

In the course of his flight, O'Meara said he climbed a mile above the hills of southern New York, a record altitude, although he had no proof to win him official recognition. His barograph failed to function, but O'Meara said he was certain he climbed higher than 5,000 feet, or 2,000 feet more than the record.

IF YOU HAD A THOUSAND MESSENGERS could you gather this news?

If you had a thousand fleet men at your command and you called them in and said, "Go forth into the world, in all directions, and bring back news of things which will fill my life with more pleasure and more comfort—"

If you did, you wouldn't learn as many helpful facts about this world's goods as you do by reading the advertisements in your daily newspaper!

These advertisements tell you, first-hand, of countless things which will give you more pleasure and more comfort. They quote dimensions, sizes, colors, qualities, prices, so that you may buy as efficiently as a purchasing agent. They announce the new, the smart, the unusual. They save you many steps in shopping and many dollars on the year's purchases.

Each day, as you read your newspaper, messengers come to you with good news from the merchants in your community and manufacturers all over the country. These messengers are the advertisements. Read them and know the best the world is offering you.
